NEWS BRIEFS

U.S. Asks Speed On Cyprus Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States urged the U. N. Security Council Wednesday to promote speedy agreement on an international peace-keeping force for Cyprus in consultation with Secretary-General U Thant.

Declaring that peace in the Mediterranean is at stake, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the council the need for such a force is "critical and urgent."

He said the world cannot stand idly by and witness "a fire than is consuming Cyprus" which can spread rapidly beyond the shores of that strife-torn Mediterranean island republic.

Sailors Plucked From Raging Sea

NEW YORK (AP) — Rescuers pulled 21 men from the ocean or the listing decks of the storm-stricken British grain ship Ambassador Wednesday, but one — the ship's master — was dead.

Fourteen other crewmen still were missing Wednesday night in the wind-lashed North Atlantic, but sighting of a flashing light by a Canadian search plane spurred the hunt for them.

A message from the Coast Guard cutter Coos Bay, one of the rescue ships, to Coast Guard headquarters here reported that the men rescued by a Norwegian freighter, the Fruen, "are in good condition except the master, who was dead on arrival."

Cuban Skippers Fined $500

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The masters of four fishing vessels owned by the Fidel Castro government were convicted Wednesday of intruding in Florida waters.

Their 25 crewmen were freed on similar charges.

Criminal Court Judge Thomas Caro sentenced the four captains to six months in jail and fined them $500 each. He said the jail terms would be suspended as soon as the fines are paid.

Woman Shoots At Texas Candidate

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas police said Wednesday night a woman shot at a man at the municipal airport in the belief that her target was radio executive Gordon McLendon.

McLendon, who owns and operates radio stations in several cities, is seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator to succeed Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

Late Wednesday night, Cunningham identified the woman as Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Stone, 47, of Dallas. He said assault with intent to murder charges would be filed against Mrs. Stone Thursday morning.

Sinatra Senior Takes Stand

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sinatra Sr. denied Wednesday that his son's abduction was a hoax and said that he never had given the youth advice on publicity or how to deal with the press.

The 48-year-old singer testified for more than two hours at the trial of three men charged with kidnaping Frank Jr., 20.

Barry Confident In NH Primary

With Goldwater in New hampshire (AP — Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater said Wednesday he thinks he can capture close to 50 per cent of the vote in New Hampshire's presidential primary.

And he told about 60 supporters in Rumney that kind of showing would "sew up some states that are waiting to see what happens here."

"I think I can win very handily in the northeast," Goldwater said.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Gains by steels, motors and rubbers highlighted another irregular stock market Wednesday. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average declined .49 to 794.91.

Volume was 4.26 million shares compared with 4.66 million Tuesday.

Fatter Take Home Pay Predicted For March

Tax Bill Hurdles Last Big Barrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most taxpayers were assured more take-home pay starting early next month when Senate and House conferees wrapped up Wednesday a compromise agreement on the biggest tax-cut bill in the nation's history.

The reduction, expected to climb to $11.5 billion a year, will ease the Treasury's bite on businesses as well as individuals. However, there will be some tightening of present regulations which will mean higher taxes in some areas.

Ironing out of differences between Senate and House version of the bill put the long-awaited measure over its last big hurdle. It took the conferees only three days of voting to whiz through their handful of major differences and nearly 200 minor and technical ones.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager of the bill in the Senate and a conferee, told newsmen, "I believe we have come up with a better bill than either the House or Senate passed."

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the House Democratic whip, said he expects the House to pass the bill next Tuesday with no trouble. Long said he expects the Senate to act the same day or on Wednesday, without "any considerable opposition," sending the bill to the White House.

President Johnson will probably sign the bill shortly after March 1, Long said, and taxpayers will feel the first effects in their paychecks received after about March 12. This will come in reducing the withholding rate from 18 per cent to 14 per cent of income; this rate is based on listing no personal exemptions with the employer and varies with the number listed.

The heart of the bill is the cut in individual tax rates, which the Treasury estimates will range from 14 per cent to 70 per cent instead of the present 20 per cent to 91 per cent. The average cut is estimated at 19 to 20 per cent.

Additional Benefit

Taxpayers in the lower income ranges will get additional benefit from a new liberalized standard deduction. This will leave more money in the hands of an estimated 13.5 million taxpayers and also take some 1.5 million others off the rolls entirely.

The corporate rate will be reduced in two stages from 52 to 48 per cent.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, ranking Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said he expects his GOP colleagues to accept the bill "despite its defects," such as adding 300 pages to the tax code.

The chance of any further floor fight seemed to have been squelched when the conferees agreed to keep the capital gains tax substantially as it is.

There is no question that Johnson will act promptly since the tax cut heads his 1964 legislative list and is the keystone of his economic program. He hopes putting extra money in the taxpayers' hands will be a shot in the arm for the Gross National Product and help ease unemployment.

Dixie Rights Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., threw down the Southern gauntlet Wednesday on the forthcoming civil rights battle, saying, "We intend to fight this bill with all the vigor at our command."

Russell said the Southern opponents he leads—he estimated their strength at 19—are prepared to debate the House-approved legislation 24 hours a day if necessary to prevent passage.

His Dixie battle cry, sounded after a conference of Southern senators, followed the equally strong stand taken by administration leaders who have promised a no-compromise fight.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the assistant Senate Democratic leader who will be floor manager of the bill, said Tuesday President Johnson is completely committed to its terms. There will be "no wheels or deals" to avoid the certain Southern filibuster, he said.

Thus the lines were drawn for the biggest legislative conflict of the year, expected to begin next week.

At issue is the strongest civil rights bill in the nation's history. It is designed to meet a nationwide Negro protest by: insuring equal access to public accommodations such as restaurants and hotels; strengthening their voting rights; providing machinery to combat racial discrimination in employment; establishing government authority to withhold funds from states that discriminate in federal-aid projects.

Bobby Baker

Baker Takes Fifth

WASHINGTON (AP)— Bobby Baker faced his former Senater associates Wednesday and refused to turn over his financial records or answer their questions.

They told him to come back next Tuesday for a public hearing and threatened him with a contempt of Congress citation if he persists in his refusal.

The 35-year-old former Senate aide invoked the Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination, and a variety of other constitutional rights.

One of his two lawyers, Edward Bennett Williams, protested that the Senate Rules Committee was conducting an unfair "legislative trial" of Baker, whose appearance brought an overflow crowd of spectators outside the committee's closed door.

'Ridiculous' Charge

L. P. McLendon, the committee's special counsel, termed Williams' charge "ridiculous and totally unfounded." McLendon told newsmen that "the foundation was laid for contempt proceedings" at an hour-long confrontation between Baker and the committee.

Conviction for contempt of Congress carries a possible penalty of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Williams said Baker again will invoke the Fifth Amendment when he returns for an open hearing next Tuesday.

No Juror Yet For Ruby Trial

DALLAS (AP) — The state barred its first candidate from the Jack Ruby murder trial jury Wednesday because he called the defendant emotionally disturbed when he shot Lee Harvey Oswald. The defense also forced two others from the panel.

In all, 16 prospects have paraded through the courtroom in the past two days and not one has been accepted for jury duty. Eleven of them have been discharged by the court for cause. The trial resumes Thursday.

However, Judge Joe B. Brown told newsmen he was neither "discouraged nor encouraged" by the slow progress.

"If it's possible to get a fair and impartial jury in Dallas, I want to try it here," Brown added. The defense claims an impartial jury cannot be obtained because of local feeling against Ruby, and it wants the trial transferred out of Dallas County.

The state exercised its initial peremptory challenge to dismiss as a jury prospect Frank Meza, 38, a warehouseman for a carpet company. The defense had asked his opinion as to why Ruby last Nov. 24 shot Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy.

The building caught fire about 11:30 p.m.

The firemen were forced to spray water on nearby homes to keep them from catching fire. The blaze was seen from miles away.

No known reason for the cause of the fire was learned when the Daily Record went to press.

Stroud Union

Roberts Presses Baymor On Vote

STROUDSBURG—The Stroud Union School Board was told last night it will have a cash surplus of $217,000 at the end of the current school year and then discussed county school reorganization and how it will affect Stroud Union.

John Baymor, board treasurer, reported at a meeting in the high school, the district will end the 1964 fiscal year on June 30, with an estimated bank account of $217,000, which the board plans to use for teachers salaries during July and August.

The board then went into a discussion of school reorganization — a subject which could conceivably affect the district's healthy financial standing, according to figures released yesterday by Walter Sebring, assistant county school superintendent.

Baymor, a member of the county school board, told other directors, "I would like to see the county reorganized into four units. In all probability, however, we will wind up in a single county unit."

Raymond Roberts kept pressing Baymor for an answer on how Baymor will vote at tonight's county board meeting if a plan for reorganization is brought up for a vote.

Roberts noted the Stroud Union board has gone on record as favoring a four-district plan, then said to Baymor, "Where do you stop representing us? I would like to know if you would vote against a single county unit?"

After assuring Roberts that he would vote in favor of a four-district plan, Baymor said how he would vote on any other plan is conjecture because no other plan has been proposed.

"I don't want you to tell me how to vote on the county board," he told Roberts.

In other action the board heard a letter read by Dr. John Lim, board secretary, from the Stroud Union Student Council asking why the board picked January as the effective date of a recent resolution banning married students from taking part in most high school extra-curricular activities.

The student council suggested in its letter that the end of this school year or the start of the next year would have been a more opportune time to impose the ban's effective date.

Robert Hellmann, board president, said, "The board accepts the letter and expresses appreciation for the council's interest in the matter." The ban is now the subject of a law suit filed against the board Feb. 11.

'Quake Victims Evacuate

ANGRA DO HEROISMO, Azores (AP) Dazed and shaken by four days of earthquakes, more than 1,000 refugees have reached Angra from the ruins of the little Azores island of Sao Jorge.

A pall of sulphur hung over Sao Jorge. Its chief town, Velas with a population of 3,000, was in rubble.

Then after four days of nightmare, the violence of the seismic shocks began to die and at midafternoon Wednesday the captain of Angra's port called off the U.S., British, Norwegian, Italian and Yugoslav ships that had been ferrying refugees.

The chief concern became the comfort of the 19,000 or so islanders left behind. A Portuguese army battalion left Angra for Sao Jorge with tents, medicine and food.

Only 20 miles of sea separate Sao Jorge and this Azores island of Terceira, making it possible to move refugees out quickly.

Barracks Prepared

Barracks space for 1,000 refugees was prepared in Angra and about 500 families volunteered beds in their homes.

Col. Hugh E. Wilde, acting commander of the U.S. Air Force Base at Lajes on Terceira's north shore, offered full assistance in the rescue operations. Two small craft from the base met the larger rescue ships and brought refugees ashore.

Jose Miniz Madruga, 48, a tailor, told how it was on the island which is about 1,000 miles out in the Atlantic from Lisbon.

The earth shocks came one after another, through the night so no one could sleep and deep cracks formed in the stone walls of his home, he said. Authorities said he would have to leave. Twenty shocks were recorded Tuesday night.

Harris Appeals For New Trial

STROUDSBURG — Hal H. Harris is appealing last Friday's jury verdict that Stroudsburg Mayor Joseph H. Small did not libel Harris with a political advertisement that appeared in the Daily Record Nov. 4, 1961.

Atty. Kennard Lewis, of East Stroudsburg, who represented Harris in the four-day trial, has filed a motion for a new trial with the Court of Common Pleas of Monroe County.

The motion sets forth seven specific reasons for requesting another trial. It states:

"The verdict is against the law.

"The verdict is against the evidence.

"For further reasons as will appear from the record when the same is transcribed and filed.

"The plaintiff requests the permission to file additional reasons within 15 days from the filing of the transcript.

"The jury may have misunderstood the charge of the court in that the jury may have inferred that it had to find all four types of damages against the defendant and in favor of the plaintiff."

Judge's Charge

In his charge, Wayne County President Judge James B. Rutherford, who specially presided, told the jury it could find in favor of Harris and award general, special, nominal or punitive damages.

Atty. Lewis filed the motions Tuesday afternoon because the law requires such motions be made within four days of the original verdict.

"Testimony will be transcribed and both attorneys will file briefs and arguments for and against a new trial will be heard by the court," he said yesterday.

The original libel suit, which sought damages in excess of $5,000, stemmed from an advertisement that read:

"Yes, $100,000 is a lot of money, but it took George Robinson (borough solicitor) and a judgment in Monroe County Court to collect it! Think . . . then vote Joe Small for mayor of Stroudsburg."

Ex Chief Burgess

Harris, who served as Stroudsburg's chief burgess for 22 years, claims the advertisement damaged his standing in the community and helped send him to political defeat in his 1961 mayoralty race against Small. He lost the election.

A jury of six men and six women found for the defendant after hearing four days of testimony and deliberating for two and one-half hours.

It will probably take two months before the court will decide if a new trial is warranted on the strength of the arguments of the opposing attornews, according to Lewis.

Phillip Williams of the Stroudsburg law firm of Bensinger and Bensinger represented Small during the first trial and will file answers to Harris' new motion.

Battered Keystone Plows Out

Pennsylvania began Wednesday to dig itself out from under the heavy snows which battered much of the state overnight.

The weatherman, meanwhile, was forecasting cloudy skies with light flurries for Thursday, but no accumulation.

The storm, 1964's second big one, began in the south and crept northward, pounding the central Pennsylvania area with as much as 25 inches of the snow.

The weather bureau said it moved in a narrow band northeastward from Franklin County on the Maryland line, through Harrisburg, and into the hard coal regions in the northeast.

It was in the central Pennsylvania area that the snow fell hardest. Typical readings were 25 inches at Huntsdale near Carlisle; 20 at Harrisburg, 18 at Chambersburg, 20 at Pottsville.

Across the rest of the state, readings ranged from 2 to 3 inches at Philadelphia in the southeast to 3 inches at Erie in the extreme northwest. In between amounts ran to 15 inches.

All main highways across the state were open, the Highways Department said. Some secondary and rural roads were closed.

The department said it had 12,000 pieces of equipment out clearing the arteries across the state.

Roads should remain in good condition, a spokesman said, if no drifting occurs. However, work crews were braced for that possibility, in line with a Weather Bureau forecast.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike was open with very little drifting reported.

The storm had its usual impact on city life.

Pipe, Cigar Sales Soar; Cigarette Firms Watch

EDITOR'S NOTE — One month ago the U.S. surgeon general's report on smoking shook the tobacco industry. The following story, based on a nationwide Associated Press survey, tells about the effects of the report on cigarette sales, tax receipts, advertising, new products, factory output and other areas of the multibillion-dollar industry.

By RICHARD H. HOENIG
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mixed among hundreds of baskets of unfinished tobacco pipes in a Brooklyn factory are several dozen filled with bright red, yellow and green parts.

When completed these colored pipes will sport rhinestones embedded in polished, carved bowls. The pipes are only five inches long, designed to attract women.

A newspaper advertisement urges readers to try a "safety cigarette that looks like a cigarette, feels like a cigarette and satisfies like a cigarette—but you never light up." The manufacturer of this clove-scented imitation of a cigarette guarantees money back if it doesn't reduce withdrawal symptoms when you give up the real item.

Anti-Smoking Lecture

In a Paterson, N.J. drugstore a customer receives antismoking literature and a short lecture when he buys cigarettes. "We don't just tell them you shouldn't smoke but we try to explain why," says the chief pharmacist.

Last month a scientific panel convened by the surgeon general of the United States branded cigarette smoking a hazard to health, a cause of lung cancer and a contributing factor to other diseases. Remedial action was urged.

Cigarette sales immediately dropped. Some guesses on the size of the drop ran to 30 per cent.

Sales apparently are rebounding now. A nationwide Associated Press survey of retailers, distributors and wholesalers indicates that sales remain below the levels before the report was released, but that the prevailing movement is upward in at least 12 of 17 major cities surveyed. These 12 included Kansas City, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Cleveland, New Orleans and Denver.

Return To Normal

"I think there will be a quick return to almost normalcy," said Morris Shlensky, president of Katz Drug Co., a large Midwestern chain. "Most customers seemed to take it as a lark. It has been fashionable to say, 'I have given up cigarettes'." Many in the industry agree.

Among the nation's major cigarette manufacturers only one has given any direct indication of recent sales. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., the No. 1 cigarette maker, said that orders being placed by wholesaler distributors "indicate a drop nationally in retail sales of our products which is more than normal at this time of year."

Another indicator of sales is cigarette tax receipts. A check of January figures for 19 states showed 16 declines from January 1963. However, in more than half the cases where state officials commented, they said the "smoking and health" report could not clearly be blamed.

Declines in cigarette tax receipts ranged from an estimated 3 per cent in California to 13 per cent in Rhode Island. The average was 8.3 per cent.

Confused Picture

Factors that confused the picture included purchases of tax stamps a month or two in advance and bulk purchases of stamps based on money available for taxes rather than on cigarettes sold or ordered. Several state officials said it was too early to determine the true effect of the report.

One fact was clear. The demand for cigars, pipes and smoking tobacco has skyrocketed.

But one industry source cautioned: "No one really knows if this will hold or whether everyone will go back to cigarettes."

Meanwhile, the companies that made most of the 511 billion cigarettes puffed by an estimated 70 million U.S. smokers last year are sitting back and, as one tobacco man put it, "waiting to be told what they will be allowed to do and what they won't be permitted to do."

Watchful Waiting

Part of the answer may come after a March 16 Federal Trade Commission hearing on rules that would drastically restrict cigarette advertising. The FTC proposals would require each cigarette package and advertisement to display prominently a warning that cigarette smoking is hazardous to health and may cause cancer and other diseases.

Cigarette company advertising is estimated at $150 to $200 million annually.

Two major companies have made advertising changes since the smoking report. But all maintain they have not cut total advertising outlays or altered basic policy.

Another development has been a reduction of the work week for an undetermined number of the industry's nearly 100,000 factory workers. Three-or-four-day work weeks were ordered for some plants by each of the major makers.

The major companies have contributed to a $10-million grant to the American Medical Association's long-range study on the relationship between smoking and disease.

At the same time a proposal that would permit the Agriculture Department to undertake research into the hazards of tobacco products at a cost of $10 million annually was progressing through Congress.

State Activity

On the state level projected legislation covers the field of controls over the sales and advertising of cigarettes. Some states already have laws banning sales of cigarettes to minors.

Makers of many types of pills, tablets, gum and lozenges designed to cut the desire to smoke reported an extended sales boom.

Experts on the tobacco industry generally don't feel these substitutes will have much of an over - all effect on cigarette sales.

In the month following the report, the stocks of five major tobacco companies traded on the New York Stock EXchange declined an average of less than $1 a share. One issue, American Tobacco, was about unchanged. Liggett & Myers was up about $6 a share and the others were off about $2, $3 and $5.

Nursing Home Bills Set Up

HARRISBURG (AP) The Scranton Administration's plan for establishing special nursing centers at mental institutions for aged patients no longer requiring psychiatric care was introduced in the House Tuesday.

A package of three bills would permit the Department of Public Welfare to set up the centers on the grounds of existing state institutions.

An estimated 2,000 aged patients now in mental institutions would be transferred "to a more appropriate atmosphere," the administration said.

Largest Loan For Industry

HARRISBURG (AP) — The largest single industrial loan in the history of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority was given tentative approval Tuesday by the authority at its monthly meeting.

The board gave initial approval to a loan of $2,416,437 to the Towanda Area Industrial Development Corp. for construction of a new plant for the Masonite Corp. of Chicago.

Steel Industry Backs Tariff

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The steel industry has launched a campaign against any reduction in steel tariffs during international trade negotiations scheduled for Geneva later this year.

Industry witnesses told the Tariff Commission the domestic industry could have provided 40,000 additional jobs last year if steel imports had been held at the 1953-57 level.

And they warned that an additional 100,000 jobs are in jeopardy by 1970 unless the import trend is reversed.

State Begins Poverty War

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The state Council on Human Services said it is planning a series of regional conferences to coordinate the varied efforts to fight poverty.

Public Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams, council chairman, said the first conference would be held in Philadelphia with the session in other large cities to follow.

The program which Adams said was suggested by Gov. William W. Scranton, is aimed at tying together the efforts of state, local and voluntary health, welfare and economic groups.

First Robbed, Then Fined

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Ellwood City businessman Cosmo Geneviva, who came under suspicion shortly after his home was robbed of $150,000 in cash, was fined $10,000 and placed on three years probation Wednesday for income tax evasion.

Sentence was imposed by Federal Judge John L. Miller after Geneviva pleaded no defense to two counts underpayment of income taxes for the period 1956-57.

The investigation of Geneviva's finances began in 1961 after two men stole $150,000 from a wall safe in his home. Police later recovered all but $10,000 of the amount.

Scranton Urges Team Effort

HARRISBURG (UPI) A group of 125 Philadelphians were told by Gov. William Scranton this week that county and local governments should do more to aid the financing of public welfare programs.

The Philadelphians came here to protest the inadequacy of current welfare payment levels.

Scranton said that if the political sub - divisions contributed toward assistance, the additional money should be returned to welfare recipients in the counties which contribute it.

Mileage Drop Approved

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The Public Utility Commission Wednesday authoried the Emmaus Telephone Co. to drop or reduce mileage charges for 1,324 Lehigh County customers by $7,000 annually on March 1.

The saving is the result of extension of the Emmaus Exchange base rate area to embrace secondary calling territory in Upper Milford, Upper Saucon, Lower Macungie and Salisbury Twps.

OSWALD AND HIS WEAPONS—This picture of Lee Harvey Oswald was taken about April of 1963 as he posed in his Dallas backyard. He held a rifle which some believed may have been the weapon used in the Kennedy shooting. He wore a revolver on his hip, and held up a newspaper called "The Militant." Negro Church Blast By Maniac, DA Says

AMBLER, Pa. (AP)—The district attorney of Montgomery County says a blast which ripped the front of a Negro church Tuesday night was the work of "a maniac on the loose."

D. A. Richard S. Lowe said the blast was triggered by the same man responsible for two recent bombings in nearby Norristown.

Lowe said the bomb was planted outside the front door of the 65-year-old Bethlehem Baptist Church, from which two choir members left only moments before the explosion.

The Norristown explosion occurred two blocks apart within an 11-day period, one in an unoccupied automobile and another in a greenhouse. Police said they are without a motive and clues to both incidents.

Gypsy Moth Infestation To Be Aired Marched 2

STROUDSBURG — A discussion of the current gypsy moth infestation along the Monroe-Northampton County line will be held March 2 at 8 p.m. in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Leland Bull, State Secretary of Agriculture, and Henry F. Nixon, director of the Bureau of Plant Industry, will lead the question and answer period.

The infestation became evident, according to John Withrow, county agent, last summer when a trapping program for the moths was carried out in the county.

Large scale aerial spray operations were used to halt gypsy moth infestations in parts of Pike and Monroe County, but no spraying was done along the county border.

All interested people are invited to attend.

Cuban Blockade

The United States economic blockade of Cuba has been weakened by the almost comical contradictions of our foreign policy.

We are selling wheat to Communist Russia on one hand and getting mad at our closest ally, Britain, for selling buses to Communist Cuba on the other. What's the difference, the British ask?

We have no convincing answer. What is the difference between selling wheat to Russia and selling wheat to Cuba if they want to buy and can pay cash?

Is Cuba a greater menace to world peace or American security than Russia?

Other disturbing questions shoot holes in our present policy toward trade with Communist nations.

The State Department Tuesday cut off aid to Britain, France and Yugoslavia in retaliation for their continuing trade with Cuba.

It also suspended new aid commitments to Spain and Morocco until they explain what steps are being taken to curtail their trade with Cuba.

But it did not explain what "appropriate steps" had been taken by 14 other nations which will continue to get U. S. aid despite their trade with Cuba.

As a matter of diplomatic reality, we cannot push Spain too hard on this issue without risking our bases in Spain.

On another front, Secretary of State Dean Rusk hinted recently that while the State Department would not institute a boycott against goods sold in the United States by nations trading with Cuba, the shoppers of America might do it themselves.

This official encouragement of private boycotts conflicts with State Department efforts to end private American boycotts of products from Poland and Yugoslavia — two Communist nations the United States wants to pull away from the Soviet economic block.

A similar private boycott by seamen's unions threatens to end American shipment of wheat sold to Russia. Again contradictions plague our foreign policy.

Some of these contradictions are part of the reality of the complicated situations we face. We cannot simply declare economic war on our allies. We have enough trouble with the Communist enemy. We cannot trade with some Communist nations and say it is immoral for our allies to trade with others. But our disorganized reactions to separate foreign crises compound the existing confusion. This is the traditional weakness of American foreign policy.

Because our goal is freedom and independence for other nations, peace and quiet in the world, we are often on the defensive.

In the present argument over trade with Cuba, both our allies and our enemies have put us on the defensive and are forcing us into more belligerent action to make our economic blockade of Cuba something more than a joke.

It is time for more firm action to be taken.

America In South Viet Nam

The confusion of American foreign policy is nowhere more evident or more expensive than in South Viet Nam, where we are spending $1 million a day on the war against Communist guerillas.

A few days ago Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge warned that our engagement in the war against Communist guerillas in South Viet Nam may have to last for five or ten years if the nation is to survive in freedom.

Shortly before that, and apparently unknown to Ambassador Lodge, Robert S. McNamara, U. S. secretary of defense, told the House Armed Services Committee we should withdraw most of our 16,000 military men from South Viet Nam by the end of 1965.

McNamara argued that after American military experts teach and train South Viet Namese soldiers for four years, the Vietnamese will have to fight and win the war for themselves.

Lodge took the opposite view, saying the Vietnamese would need our help for a long time.

This argument and this question will be one of the major foreign policy problems facing the United States in the next two years.

Do we stay and fight for victory to the end? Do we put more troops into South Viet Nam? Do we risk or intentionally start another Korean War by putting our soldiers into direct fighting posts?

Or do we quit, pull out and leave it to the Vietnamese, who appear certain to lose if left to fight by themselves?

Comment Of The Day

"I don't believe that as a nation we should assume the primary responsibility for the war in South Viet Nam.

"It is a counterguerilla war. It is a war that can only be won by the Viet Namese themselves.

"Our responsibility is not to substitute ourselves for the Vietnamese, but to train them to carry on the operations that they themselves are capable of."

—Robert S. McNamara, U. S. secretary of defense, in testimony before the House Armed Services Committee.

The Allen-Scott Report

Hush-Hush Plan

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — A long-range, highly controversial State Department plan is behind those suddenly-announced orders to withdraw military dependents from Guantanamo and to reduce the number of Cubans working there.

Aim of this inner State Department plan is the eventual complete "phasing out" of this country's occupancy of the big strategic naval base.

Navy authorities, who are vigorously against both withdrawing military dependents and cutting back Cuban workers, are claiming these moves are important steps in the execution of the State Department's backstage objective.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, spearheaded by the Navy, are strenuously opposed to giving up Guantanamo at any time in the foreseeable future.

The State Department's hush-hush plan actually is not new. It was formulated by the department's Policy Planning Council not long after dictator Fidel Castro came into power in 1959. But it got nowhere at the White House in the face of adamant Pentagon resistance.

At one period in the Kennedy administration, Secretary Rusk sought to pump new life into this scheme, but made no headway when the Navy vehemently dissented.

A major premise of the State Department's plan is that sooner or later Castro will take the Guantanamo issue to the United Nations, and the U.S. should be ready to give up the base rather than risk a "censure" vote.

It is argued that activities at Guantanamo should gradually be shifted to the Roosevelt Roads base in Puerto Rico. Under a program started by the late President Kennedy last year, this base is being rapidly expanded and modernized at a cost of around $100 million.

To do so would be a crushing blow to Castro foes in and out of Cuba, and would gravely undermine U.S. prestige throughout Latin America and elsewhere; as long as Cuba remains a Communist puppet state, Guantanamo is militarily vital to the U.S.; relinquishment of the base would mean its instant falling into the hands of Russia.

Navy authorities contend it's possible to overestimate Guantanamo's value to the Soviet. It not only would give the Reds a major deep-water submarine base 90 miles from the U.S., but would provide them with an invaluable stronghold from which to conduct subversive and other turbulent operations throughout Latin America.

More Trouble Ahead — Navy Intelligence has ascertained that Castro, with active Kremlin connivance, is planning to follow up his shutting off of Guantanamo's water supply with other harassments.

One scheme is to stage fishing boat "sitdowns" in Guantanamo harbor to obstruct shipping operations. Vessels of all nations have access to this superb harbor.

Another Castro plan is to raise the Guantanamo issue in the United Nations on the ground the U.S. is violating its treaty rights by harboring Cuban refugees on the base. It is definitely known that Soviet bloc diplomats have been taking soundings at the U N on such a move.

Basis of this threatened charge is some 500 Cubans working at Guantanamo who have been given asylum there. Since the recent furore, 72 have asked for refuge.

The 1903 treaty between the U.S. and Cuba bars refugees on Guantanamo. Article IV reads as follows: "Fugitives from justice charged with crimes or misdemeanors amenable to Cuban law, taking refuge within said area, shall be delivered by the United States authorities on demand by duly authorized Cuban Authorities."

Castro has not yet made formal demand for these refugees. But they live in daily dread of his doing so. Among the Cuban workers rumors are frequent that he is about to crack down.

The Navy has long urged that these refugees be quietly and gradually dispersed to Puerto Rico and other countries of their choice. This has been advocated on the ground that the U.S. under no circumstances can return these refugees to Castro; for many of them that would amount to a death sentence.

So the Navy has sought to ship them out in small and unnoticed groups.

But the State Department has blocked that on the argument it would be a clearcut violation of Article IV and provide Castro with exactly the issue he has been looking for to go to the UN and challenge U.S. retention of Guantanamo.

While the U.S. has never given the Cuban workers official asylum on Guantanamo, in effect that's what they are enjoying.

In opposing the withdrawal of military dependents, the Navy held that the "Berlin rule" should be applied to the base. This so-called rule was formulated during the historic Berlin crisis a decade ago when the U.S. pointedly kept all military families in the Communist-periled German metropolis. This policy was a tremendous morale booster both among U.S. forces and the Berlin population.

The Pennsylvania Story

Unhappy GOP

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG —Republican candidates for legislative seats this year are about the unhappiest chaps you'll find anywhere.

This was rather clearly indicated as lawmakers returned to Capitol Hill this week to pick up the stringy threads of their regular 1964 "fiscal affairs only" session and the nutcracker special session called by Governor Scranton last week to run concurrently with the regular hoedown.

This is the year all 209 seats in the House of Representatives and half the fifty seats in the State Senate are up for filling — and the year no one seeking re-election to such posts ever wants a "controversial" campaign year!

For 1964 this is somewhat beside the point however; whether they want such a controversial year or not they now have it — with much of the sullen blame being concentrated increasingly in the direction of Governor Scranton.

GOP lawmakers point out that few items could have been picked by any chief executive more likely to lead to their defeat or an extraordinarily tough campaign, than Mr. Scranton's decision to "iron out" Pennsylvania's pressing unemployment compensation dilemma this critical election year of all years.

Most lawmakers readily agree that some revision is necessary in Pennsylvania's expensive jobless pay program — and this goes for both sides of the political aisle — but that 1964 should be programmed as the "decision year" has sent many a GOP lawmaker into a table-pounding rage.

This year Pennsylvania Democrats are not about to cast even the slightest shadow in the favor of arch-rival Republicans, which almost any iota of UC revision support on their part would most certainly do.

The net result is that Administration Republicans in both House and Senate, with their pitifully small majority edge, will have no choice other than to carry the torch themselves.

As matters stand at present on Capitol Hill, it is almost certain the torch bearers will never reach the summit to proclaim passage of the Scranton UC revision legislation.

Thus, insofar as Republican candidates are concerned, while the UC measure may never gain passage, the onus (to them — and Democrats) of having been on the side proposing the UC revision is regarded as the equivalent of two strikes against them even before they get their fall campaigns under way.

Somewhat paradoxically, it can be said that the Scranton people "technically" are on the right track in seeking the long-needed UC reform; however "politically" they are quite generally regarded as being on the wrong track.

In political campaigns it is the "politically" right that invariably wins over the "technically" right — the very point that foreshadows trouble compounded for administration Republican legislative aspirants.

The argument has been — and is — that the administration will put up a good show, a good fight, an intensified "educational" program in behalf of the UC revision advocated by the Scranton Administration; that this in the end will do much to take away a goodly portion of the onus of being aligned with the UC "revampists" bloc.

This argument for the most part has fallen on deaf ears insofar as the rank and file GOP lawmaker is concerned — and as a result has created a somewhat sullen air of askance for the Scranton "UC strategy" moves.

For anti-administration Democrats, the UC issue as spelled out by Mr. Scranton generally is viewed as a "made to order" issue — in their behalf!

As one Democratic old pro expressed it: "We couldn't have done better had we dreamed it up ourselves!"

Dear Abby

It Depends

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Would you get mad if someone asked you if you were wearing something false?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Only if I were.

DEAR ABBY: I am on the verge of losing my senses. A neighbor of ours has become a pigeon fancier and he is literally driving me insane. Those birds are so dirty I can't even hang my laundry outside. And I am forever hosing down my sidewalk. Parking my car in my own driveway is out of the question. There must be 50 or 60 pigeons, and this man and his wife feed them popcorn and bread all day long. I just can't take it any more. I have heard that pigeons carry disease. Is this true? Is there anything I can do? I hate to be a poor neighbor, but this is too much.

PIGEON HATER

DEAR HATER: It has been established that a harmful fungus (Cryptococcus neoformans) is foun din pigeon droppings. Health officials everywhere are waging a war to rid cities of pigeons for this reason. There should be a special breeding ground where pigeons are kept under control. Call your local health department.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and his wife are the world's biggest tightwads. They have no children and are both holding down good paying jobs. They pulled a few strings and got a heating system for their home wholesale. Then they talked my husband, who is a crack furnace and air-conditioning man, into installing it for them. When he finished the job, they said, "Thanks a lot." Don't you think my husband was entitled to something for his time? He wouldn't have charged them his regular price, but he wasn't given one dime! How's that for cheap? I would give them a piece of my mind, but we aren't speaking.

MAD AS HOPS

DEAR MAD: Before anyone performs a service (be it for customer, relative or his best friend), there should be an agreement on price. Your brother IS cheap — but your husband should have learned a cheap lesson.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

George Dixon

Cuckoo Clockwork

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — On Jan. 27, the Senate declared that its new germaneness rule was now in effect, and that for three hours each day the senators would have to stick to the business on hand, instead of wandering all over heck's half acre.

Ever since then, the germaneness rule has functioned like clockwork. Cuckoo clockwork.

A few days after committing themselves to forego unlimited and irrelevant debate for three whole hours a day, the senators met at noon, and after trying to keep to the subject for 48 minutes, they adjourned because they could think of nothing to talk about.

A couple of days after that, they theoretically got onto the tax relief bill, and the following germane debate resulted:

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield: "Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent that I be granted permission to make the statement that I have previously made."

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois: "I hope that the Junior Senator from Louisiana (Russell Long) will not take it amiss when he says that he had been for the removal of the original cabaret tax, but is opposed to it now, if I quote from Euripedes . . ." and, by golly, if he didn't go ahead and quote.

Senator Long: "I am more concerned about those (cabaret) musicians than I am about Euripedes."

Senator John Williams of Delaware: "I yield one minute to the Senator from Arkansas."

Senator John McClellan of Arkansas: "Two minutes."

Senator Mundt: "Two from the Senator from Arkansas and one from this side."

Senator McClellan: "Two and one make three."

Senator Mundt: "That is the soundest economic observation we have had so far on the tax debate . . ."

Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin: "This amendment has all kinds of fathers."

Senator Kenneth Keating of New York: "Mr. President, I dislike to see all these 'fathers' take to the hills."

Senator Long: "Mr. President, New Orleans is one of the prime entertainment cities in the United States. It is sometimes known as the city that care forgot . . ."

Senator Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming: "We have a song out West that should dispose of this question.

Man's Best Friend

A reader from East Stroudsburg brought to our attention a speech delivered by George Graham Vest at Warrensburg, Pa., Sept. 23, 1870.

The writer of the letter to this corner is Charles E. Decker, 213 King St., East Stroudsburg.

It would be a shame to cut any of the talk made by Vest. So to give our readers the benefit of its text we will run it in full.

Old Drum it is called — a fitting eulogy to a dog.

Gentlemen of the jury: The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful.

Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name may become traitors to their faith.

The money a man has, he may lose; it flies away from him perhaps when he needs it most.

A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads.

The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is his dog.

A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side.

He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer. He will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounters with the roughness of the world.

He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens.

If fortune drives the master forth, an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger to fight against his enemies.

And when the last scene of all comes and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death.

Markin Time

We may be timid, may be bold;
Be patient or disposed to fuss.
The length of life can't make us old.
But what we let life do to us.

A lie has speed on any track.
The truth will be faint hearted.
A lie will go to town and back,
Before the truth has started.

Some music may be elegant;
Perhaps in business is a winner.
It takes the rest from restaurant,
And then it puts the din in dinner.

God and I weave life each day
And will until I pass away.
Though some folks try to hurt my pride,
I know God sees the other side.

When life is grand, then you would give
A lot to travel far,
Yet Humdrum is not where you live,
But it is who you are.

Asked why he had spent the past thirty days in jail, a young delinquent explained, "All I did was borrow a little money." "Since when do they jail people for borrowing money?" jeered a new acquaintance. "They do in some cases," said the delinquent. "Mine, for example. I had to knock a man down four times before he agreed to lend it to me."

John Straley tells of a perpetually hungry couple on a cross - country motor trip who stopped at an inviting inn, stuffed themselves to the gills, and then drove over for a look at the Grand Canyon. "That certainly was a marvelous gorge," said the husband as they backed away from the rim. "Thats right," agreed his wife, "but between you and me, I wish I'd had room for one more portion of that delicious pie a la mode."

Speaking Of Your Health:

The Wisdom Of The Body

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

"The wisdom of the body" is an astute phrase that is attributed to one of America's brilliant scientists, Dr. Walter B. Cannon of Harvard University. In a book with this title, Dr. Cannon restates the philosophy of an English scientist, Dr. E. H. Starling, who said: "Only by understanding the wisdom of the body shall we attain the mastery of disease and pain which then will enable us to relieve the burden of mankind."

Man's most brilliant creations shrivel into insignificance when compared with the intricacies of his own body. The mechanisms of thirst, hunger, fever, hormone secretion, sight and interpretation of sound are only a few of the wonders that function in health and disease.

When the new-born baby emerges into the world, drawing its first life-sustaining breath, many mysterious processes had been preparing for it.

Provisions Made

The wisdom of the body had made many provisions for the moment that the infant would be thrust into this new environment. The transition from the protective womb of the mother to the formidable climate of the external world is accomplished quickly and safely.

The mystery of the first breath is still being probed by scientists; they have not yet uncovered the secret. Perhaps colder air, more light, or touching of the skin stimulates the nerves that induce the wonder of the first breath.

All through life, the regulation of body temperature, the control of fluid balance, the speed of respiration, and muscular coordination are body mechanisms that are casually taken for granted.

Consider the brilliant engineering feat of a simple sneeze, that occurs in a fraction of a second after inhaling pepper. The irritation sets in motion a whole battery of responses that protect the body against the noxious foreign substance.

The color, shape and form of a flower are recognizable in a fraction of an instant through the complex network of communication to the eye and to the brain.

Built-in Devices

Safety devices are built in to the "thermostats, electric fuses and electronic computers" in all of the miraculous mechanisms of the body.

In its wisdom, the body withstands the impact of illness and injury and coordinates the forces that return it to good health. All that must be done to preserve this wondrous gift is to cherish, care for and respect it so that it may continue to function at its maximum.

FEAR THRIVES

Hearsay, rumors, gossip, all unchallenged by truth, create their own fears. Distortion of medical facts and truths tends to undermine our emotional stability. In order to keep fear from thriving on ignorance, it is important to destroy the falsehood and then reconstruct the truth. Myths and fancies, superstition and fiction cannot survive exposure to the brilliant light of truth.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Bootlegging

In Colonial America the sale of liquor to Indians was forbidden because the Indians often drank in excess — reaching a wild, drunken state in which they posed a threat to entire communities.

But community safety didn't appear to concern some citizens. They smuggled liquor to the Indians — at a profit, of course.

One of the favorite ways of slipping liquor to the Indians was in flasks concealed in the legs of the smugglers' boots. This practice was called "bootlegging," and those who engaged in it were bootleggers."

Bootlegging thus came to mean the transportation or delivery of any illicit commodity, especially liquor.

Poconos Dig Out From Heavy Fall

STROUDSBURG — Entering into its grand finale, winter decided to snarl the Poconos with 12 to 20 inches of thick, wet snow yesterday and Tuesday.

The usual kinds of disruption and panic followed: schools closed, highway crews took a deep breath and worked round the clock, meetings were hastily called off, athletic events never happened, and a lot of area backs grew stiff shovelling snow.

The weather bureau at Avoca said last night that the snow, which began Tuesday afternoon and ended yesterday afternoon, had accumulated to a depth of 12 to 14 inches in the cities and about 20 inches at Mt. Pocono.

Depot Shut Down

"It was probably a little deeper in scattered areas around the Poconos," the weatherman said.

The Tobyhanna Army Depot closed Wednesday. Clyde Burke, information official, said the decision to open the depot today would be made this morning.

Stroud Union, East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools, Pleasant Valley, and Pocono Mountain Jointure all were closed yesterday. The Wallenpaupack Joint Schools in Newfoundland closed.

Today, school officials said all systems are "go," and schools will open.

Work Day - Night

The State Highway Department said that many men came to work at 6 a.m. on Tuesday, and finished working last night. The highway spokesman said that yesterday and Tuesday they had "22 trucks, 14 rented trucks, eight graders, four rented graders, four loaders, 10 foremen, and 98 workmen" scouring area roads.

Crews of both the municipal and state road departments had most roads open and passable yesterday by noon. Last night they were performing mopping up operations.

"We're just taking care of gripes and groans now," the state spokesman stated. "Wherever snow has melted on a road and refrozen, we're laying ashes."

The storm was the second worst of a comparatively open winter. On January 13 and 14, a storm dumped 17 inches on the county, but the effects were worse because of drifting.

High winds accompaning that storm kept drifting roads closed, and highway crews worked frantically to keep major arteries open.

Yesterday's storm coated the county with wet snow, which when plowed remained where it was put.

Fire Damages Mt. Pocono Doll House

MOUNT POCONO — The Doll House, a three-story frame house and Mount Pocono landmark, was extensively damaged by fire early yesterday. It was reportedly started by spontaneous ignition.

The fire was believed to have started on the first floor in a closet. The fire burned in an upward direction going to the second and third floors, but was contained to the northwest corner of the building after a three-hour battle by the Mount Pocono Volunteer Fire Co.

Presently Unoccupied

The presently unoccupied building is located about three miles north of Swiftwater in Mount Pocono at the intersection of Rt. 611 and Knob Road. Firemen said it is owned by the Harvey sisters, who teach school in the Wilkes-Barre area.

Formerly the annex of the Fairview Hotel, the "Doll House" is used for an antique business during the summer. The house was named for a collection of international dolls displayed by the sisters.

Several pieces of glass and antiques were destroyed causing damages estimated at $8,000 to $10,000 according to Ernest Bisbing, Mt Pocono Fire Chief.

Firemen believe the fire started at least three hours before they were summoned at 11:45 p.m. The firemen fought the blaze with booster tanks until a main line could be connected to a hydrant on top of Knob Road Hill.

Firemen reported no injuries.

Rooney To Face 3 Foes

HARRISBURG — U.S. Representative Fred B. Rooney will be opposed by three Northampton County neighbors who are also seeking the Democratic nomination for the 15th Congressional District.

Other Democrats who filed petitions in Harrisburg on the closing day were: Dr. George A. Creitz, pastor of the First United Church of Christ, Easton; John S. Stephens, Bethlehem RD 4, real estate dealer, and William C. Rybak, Bethlehem lawyer.

Rep. Rooney, Bethlehem, won a special election last July to fill the unexpired term of the late U.S. Rep. Francis E. Walter, Easton Democrat, and is now seeking his first full two-year term. The 15th District includes Northampton, Monroe, Carbon and Pike Counties.

Leo W. McCormick of Pike County has filed in Harrisburg as the Republican candidate for the Congressional seat.

Northampton County is also faced with a spirited contest for state House posts. Four Democrats and three Republicans have filed for the two seats in the new third district which includes Easton and its suburbs, Nazareth and the Slate Belt.

The Democrats, all from Easton, are Mrs. Jeanette F. Reibman and James F. Prendergast, incumbents, and Anthony J. Fili and City Councilman Jay R. Snyder.

Republicans are Henry E. Ragot, former GOP County chairman; Mrs. Mary Louise Daub, both of Easton, and Michler E. Warner of Wilson.

Five candidates are vieing for the four delegate posts to the Democratic national convention from the district. Late-filers were Simon A. Kelly, Bethlehem, who also filed for the post of Democratic state committeeman from Northampton County to oppose John Choma, Bethlehem; and Daniel J. North, Beaver Meadows, Carbon County. Dr. Charlotte B. Jordan, Stroudsburg, has filed as Democratic alternate delegate.

The resignation of Gus Verona as state Representative from Northampton's old second district to become State Senator, has opened the race for the special election to be held concurrently with the primary with Elmer J. Geiss, Danielsville, and Henry E. Ragot, former GOP county chairman, as candidates.

Raymond Young, Bangor, has filed in Harrisburg for Republican state committeeman.

Cadue Demos Boss Via Withdrawals

STROUDSBURG — James V. Cadue of Tobyhanna, will run unopposed for Democratic County Chairman in the April primary — his opposition has all withdrawn.

John Serfass of Hamilton Township and Thomas Douglas of Stroud Township last night announced their withdrawal from the race. Donald Hunsicker, who had circulated a petition failed to file it by the Tuesday deadline.

W. C. G. Peterson, the incumbent, cited personal reasons for his decision not to run. Peterson bowed out Sunday.

The withdrawals were made "in the interest of party unity and harmony," according to the former candidates.

The decision to withdraw on the part of Douglas and Serfass was made last night at the home of Stuart Pipher, county commissioner. Pipher said that "I acted as mediator." Also present at the meeting was James Cadue.

Douglas and Serfass issued a joint statement after visiting Ruth Miller, Stroud Township Justice of the Peace, to have their candidacy cancelled. It read:

"Unprecedented Move"

"In a move unprecedented in Monroe County Democratic circles, John Serfass and Thomas Douglas, aspirants for the position of Democratic chairman, withdrew from this race in behalf of James Cadue, Tobyhanna, party unification and harmony being the motivating factors."

"In the past there has always been more than one candidate," Pipher said. "In the past 10 years, this is the first time the party has been unable to back one candidate.

30-Year Committeeman

"Cadue has been a committeeman for some 30 years, and a dedicated Democrat all those years. These men (Serfass and Douglas) seem to have enough confidence in Jimmy (Cadue) that they're willing to withdraw to give him the position."

Pipher said that he had contacted the former candidates and brought them together with Cadue at the meeting.

Pipher explained the reasoning behind the withdrawal move.

"If three or four people aspire for this job, new sores open and old ones reopen. People become sore at one another, and disgruntled — party unity is sacrificed," he said.

Pipher noted that the decision was an amicable agreement in the interest of party harmony.

Hunsicker last night told of his decision not to file his petition. "I didn't file because I didn't want to hurt the campaign of Jimmy Cadue," he said.

"I felt Cadue would not be able to win if I filed — votes would be spread out. I didn't want to hurt his chances. I felt that Jimmy deserved an office."

Based On 1962-63 School Year Figures

Single County School Unit Plan: 39.39 Mills, Plus $15 Per Capita

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — If all school districts in Monroe had been operating as a single county unit for the 1962-63 school year county taxpayers would have paid a 38.39 mill school tax plus $15 in per capita taxes.

This figure was compiled by Walter Sebring, assistant superintendent of county schools, using financial reports filed by the county's 19 school districts for the year 1962-63.

The county school board meets tonight at 8 p.m. and will take up the question of reorganizing county schools as mandated by a new school law passed in the 1963 general assembly.

In November the county board adopted a plan reorganizing all county schools into four separate administrative units using the same geographical boundaries as they are now constituted in three jointures and one union district.

The board repealed that plan and called a convention of school directors in January to discuss reorganization. Individual school boards were asked to submit their views on reorganization to the county office by Feb. 5.

Sebring's tax study reduced a voluminous maze of tax data into the first substantial report on what it would cost taxpayers if the county's public school system was reorganized into a four-unit or single county district.

There are two apparent courses the county board must take.

If, in the school year of 1962-63, the county's three joint school districts were operating as three separate administrative units — that is without individual school boards — their taxpayers would have paid the following tax rates:

East Stroudsburg Area Joint School District — based on $15 per capita tax, the 5,873 taxable residents would have paid a real estate tax of 44.8 mills. This tax setup would have eliminated the 55-mill occupational tax in the Borough of East Stroudsburg.

Based on $10 per capita tax the jointure's school districts — East Stroudsburg Borough, Lehman, Middle Smithfield, Porter, Price and Smithfield townships — would have paid a 46.5 mill tax on real estate.

Operating as a joint system the individual district's 1963 tax rates were:

East Stroudsburg — real estate: 48 mills; per capita: $10, and occupation: 55 mills.

Lehman — real estate: 43 mills, and per capita: $3.

Middle Smithfield — real estate: 36 mills, and per capita: $15.

Porter — real estate: 27 mills, and no per capita tax.

Smithfield — real estate: 47 mills, and per capita $15.

The jointure spent $1,311,923.23 during the 1962-63 school year with the federal and state governments contributing $439,079.95 and local taxes raising $872,825.28.

Pleasant Valley

Pleasant Valley Joint School District — based on a $15 per capita tax, the 2,118 taxpayers from Chestnuthill, Polk and Ross Townships, would have paid a real estate tax of 44.4 mills.

Operating as a joint system the individual district's tax rates for 1963 were:

Chestnuthill — real estate: 45 mills; per capita: $10.

Polk — real estate: 56 mills; per capita: $10.

Ross — real estate: 47 mills; per capita: $10.

Eldred Township, the only school district in the county not a part of a union or joint system paid a real estate tax of 40 mills and a per capita tax of $10 in 1963. The jointure spent $479,498.33 in 1964, with state and federal reinbursement $203,002.01 and local cost $276,496.32.

The Pocono Mountain Joint School District — based on a $15 per capita tax, the district's 5,894 taxpayers would have paid a real estate tax of 37.2 mills.

During 1963 the system's component townships paid the following school taxes:

Barrett — real estate: 29 mills; per capita: $10.

Coolbaugh — real estate: 38 mills; per capita: $10.

Jackson — real estate: 50 mills; per capita: $15.

Paradise — real estate: 30 mills; per capita: $10.

Pocono — real estate: 35 mills; per capita: $10.

Tobyhanna — real estate: 30 mills; per capita: $10.

Tunkhannock — real estate: 35 mills; per capita: $15.

And the Borough of Mt. Pocono — real estate: 27 mills; per capita: $5.

During 1962-63 the joint district spent $1,274,753.83 with the federal and state governments contributing $343,437.26 and $931,316.57 raised locally.

Wouldn't Be Affected

The Stroud Union School District's 8,386 taxpayers would not be affected in a four-district plan and its 1963 tax rate of 39 mills on real estate; $10 per capita tax, and 38 mill tax on occupations would presumably have stayed the same.

In 1962-63 Stroud Union spent $1,513,892.92 on education. Local taxes raised $902,331.19 and the federal and state contributed $611,561.73.

The 38.39 mill tax rate that Sebring estimates would be sufficient to run a single county unit is based on the following figures:

An overall county assessed valuation of $69,983,365. A total school budget of $4,670,518.88 with the county's 22,759 taxpayers contributing $3,028,028.01. The federal and state governments would have contributed $1,642,490.84.

Sebring estimates that with a $10 per capita tax, a county unit would have cost the taxpayers a 40 mill real estate assessment during the 1962-63 school year.

Dr. Reed Explains Need For Sheltered Workshop

STROUDSBURG — Dr. James A. Reed, professor in the Education Department at the East Stroudsburg State College, addressed the Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Dr. Reed, formerly a P. T. Boat Commander during World War II also served as dean of men at the Edinborough State College for eleven years.

He is president of the Crippled Children's Society of Monroe County and also serves on the executive committee of the local Parents Association of Retarded Children.

The speaker was a representative on the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped which was held at Washington, D. C. during 1963.

Dr. Reed's subject was "The objectives and accomplishments of a Sheltered Workshop."

Dr. Reed said that vocational rehabilitation is one answer to the problems of the handicapped.

"In this country," he said, "we started out with the idea that every person counts — rehabilitation is a way of demonstrating that it is more than an idea."

He pointed out that neglected disability can destroy a home, cast children adrift, halt income, exhaust savings, and produce public costs so large and so prolonged as to be almost immeasurable. "Neglected disability costs every taxpayer—in public welfare payments, in lost taxes, in wasted manpower," he said.

In citing the positive effects of the State — Federal vocational rehabilitation program, the speaker said that during the year 1962, 100,000 disabled people — many of them disabled for years, thousands of them dependent on public welfare, were transformed into active people leading useful lives. The cost of this program was about 102 million dollars.

However, some of the returns on this investment are: They are now earning at the rate of $200 million a year; they pay about $17 million in Federal taxes, plus State and local taxes; some 16,000 of them had been receiving public assistance payments at the rate of $18 million a year.

Dr. Reed said the question today is, "How long will it take to meet the national goal of rehabilitating 200,000 persons a year?"

"It can be done soon," he concluded, "if local community leaders, State government, the Federal Government and voluntary organizations give their full and consistent support in a cooperative effort to rehabilitate every disabled American who needs special help to become active and useful again."

The program chairman was Chester S. Miller.

Phone Firm To Distribute Directories

DALLAS — Commonwealth Telephone Co. will distribute its directory in June, William Umphred, general commercial manager of the firm, said yesterday.

He said, "We are delaying distribution from our regular February date until June so our directory will coincide with Bell Telephone Co. distribution. Our new directory will include, in addition to the present listings, Pocono Mountain listings."

First Step

Umphred said, "This is one of the firm's steps toward toll free calls to and from the Stroudsburg exchange."

The company polled its 1,304 customers in the Saylorsburg exchange last January and found that 52 per cent of the customers favored a plan to eliminate toll charges for calls to the Stroudsburg exchange, and to have a 25 cent increase in monthly charges.

Bell Telephone Co. has approved the plan and officials of the two firms have had meetings to complete necessary details for the plan to go into effect.

Funeral Notices

KRESGE, Austin S., of Pocono Lake, Feb. 19. Aged 88 years, 1 month, 19 days. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend funeral services Saturday, Feb. 22, 2 p.m. from the Gantzhorn Funeral Home. Interment in the Pocono Lake Cemetery. Viewing Friday, Feb. 21 after 7 p.m.

In-Service Program Friday For Bangor High Teachers

BANGOR — Teachers of Bangor Area Schools will attend in-service training Friday in the high school at Bangor.

Dr. S. William Ricker, school superintendent, will be the principal speaker. His topic is "Effective Teaching."

After Dr. Ricker's talk refreshments will be served in the cafeteria from 10 to 10:30 a.m. From 10:30 to noon teachers will attend departmental meetings.

Teachers will return from lunch hour at 1 p.m. and resume departmental meeting until 2 p.m. They will have an ice cream break until 2:15 p.m. and then return to the auditorium for the final session.

The program will end at 3:30 p.m.

Co-chairmen of the program are Jay S. Young and Robert Ealey.

LCB Suspends Eagles License

STROUDSBURG — The State Liquor Control Board Tuesday announced it will suspend the license of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Lodge No. 1106, Stroudsburg, for 15 days effective March 10.

The control board cited maintenance of gambling devices and permitting gambling as the reason for the suspension.

Saylorsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Borger and John Werkheiser of Nazareth were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Marsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Budge, Freeland; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Barton, Bethlehem; Mrs. Emma Buskirk, Wind Gap, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Budge and daughter, Sherri Lynn, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Dorothy Budge.

Resort Industry To Produce Film

STROUDSBURG — A twenty-seven minute full color film featuring the resorts, scenic beauty, sports and entertainment facilities and other attractions of the 1500 sq. mile Pocono Mountain area throughout all of its four seasons is now being produced with a premier showing scheduled for late 1964. This was announced yesterday by Eric Schuchard, president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, sponsors the film.

The film will be produced by Samuel Lawrence Schulman Productions, Inc., Trenton, N. J., specialists in tourist promotion films. It will be narrated, and have accompanying music.

The Schulman firm has recently created travel films for the government of Jamaica and several Scandinavian countries. Fran Shinn of Vacation Valley and member of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau publicity committee will act as technical advisor to Schulman Productions throughout the shooting of the film. Actual shooting of the winter sequences will begin immediately.

In addition to distribution throughout the country in motion picture houses and through key television outlets, several copies of the film will be produced for showings at travel shows, travel agent groups and other similar organizations. It will also be available to clubs, schools, churches and service organizations.

Tropical hurricanes inflict damage in three ways: pounding seas, flooding and winds. Of these, the most destructive is the action of waves and hurricane tides which, in a few hours, can cause as much erosion as a century of ordinary wave action.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The sentimental side of leave-taking sort of gets lost when you face the practical difficulties of getting a guest off at all. You can be perfectly sincere in saying "I wish you didn't have to go" at the same time you're devoting every resource to make their departure possible.

And yesterday's snowstorm did pose certain difficulties in getting Shirley off toward Yugoslavia. The first sight of the depth of the snow yesterday morning was sort of awe-inspiring, and I had visions of the carefully planned rendezvous ranging from Washington and New York to Bonn and Belgrade getting all fouled up by the fact we couldn't get out the lane.

But we did, and the sadness of parting was mingled with triumph. Besides, since the Wheelers will be coming back in June for their son's wedding, it is less than forever. Practically trans - Atlantic commuting, the way time flies, except much more expensive.

At any rate, the county certainly showed off the speed which it could remove snow — not only from the roads, but from the sidewalks on the bridges. Having complained about it before it seems only fair to compliment them for this performance.

Speaking of speeding the parting guest, Dr. Lura Evans wasn't so fortunate after last Saturday night's snow storm. She found herself with three of her bridge party guests left over for the night. They've never explained satisfactorily how it happened that the rest of the guests made it but they didn't. One suspicious circumstance was that it left just enough for an all-night foursome.

Last night, from all reports, clubs weren't rounding up even a foursome, let alone a quorum, and the only telephone calls I got were from parents wondering whether or not school would keep today.

Senior Citizens

East Stroudsburg — The Senior Citizens of Monroe County have cancelled their meeting scheduled for this afternoon. The next meeting will be held March 5 at the CLU Club in East Stroudsburg.

BORROWED from the boys, the perennial sailor here has a flatter crown. Hattie Carnelgie does it in beige straw fabric fringed at the brim's edge to give a feeling of texture and body.

Brims Dip, Swoop And Go Feminine

New York — No matter how late the Spring, crocuses and Spring hats bloom early. For Spring 1964, with fashions soft, supple and suddenly prettier, the flowing lines, rounded contours and feather-light materials of the hats match the costume look of elegant ease.

To add spice to slender little shifts, small suits and cropped cotas, there are uncluttered hats with generous crowns and swooping brims.

Important in the spring line-up is the hat with a large or moderately large brim that rolls up and away from the face. Crowns fit comfortably on the head, while the brims have a windblown lift to offset soft bangs and sparkling eyes.

Another fashionable direction for brims is downward to frame the face with the eye-shadow of translucent straw, flower petals, whipped cream ruching or soft silk.

Other smart spring hats have brims that are not precisely feminine, being borrowed from the boys. The clean-lined sailor with a high-crowned Spanish flair, the gentle padre with simple crown and brim curling up at the sides, or the big bold sombrero in soft feminine colors or fragile materials.

EYE-SHADOWING feminine flatter in pale pink organdy with a demurely scooped brim is brought into focus by the billowy sash, by Emme.

Stroudsburg — A surprise baby shower was given in honor of Mrs. Richard Larsen by Mrs. Donald Henry. The shower was held on Feb. 10 in Mrs. Henry's home at 309 Wallace Street, Stroudsburg.

The room was decorated with pink and blue streamers and white baby booties. The gift table was decorated in pink and blue and featured a stork carrying a small doll in a blanket.

Following games, won by Mrs. Larsen and Mrs. June Frace, refreshments of ice cream and cupcakes were served. The cupcakes were decorated with pink and blue baby booties and were baked by Mrs. Donald Hartman of Bartonsville.

Those attending the shower were: Mrs. Margaret Holdorff and daughters Judy and Margie; Mrs. June Frace; Mrs. William Marsh; Mrs. Virginia Tebbs; Mrs. Connie Metzgar; Mrs. Ruth Ibarra; Mrs. Gloria Frantz, and Mrs. Elaine Burch.

Sending gifts but unable to attend were: Mrs. Florence Scoble and Mrs. Robert Warner.

United For World Day Of Prayer

Newfoundland — A union service for the Protestant churches of the area was held on World Day of Prayer at the Moravian Church. Participating as leaders were Mrs. Paul Goodrich, Mrs. J. Wesley Akers, Mrs. Burton Carlton, Miss Edith Simons and Mrs. Larry Lindenmuth.

Mrs. Lindenmuth led the meditation, discussing the Christian practice of practicing a life of prayer. She noted that Jesus' whole life was one of prayer, and that there are three facts revealed by Jesus which help Christians practice prayer: God is personal; God is love; God is holy.

"When we realize this, we can come into a closer relationship with God, and make our lives lives of prayer, too," she said.

A duet, "Whispering Hope" was sung by Mrs. Albert DeFrehn and Mrs. Arthur Jones, with Mrs. Earl McLain as organist.

Participating in the prayers were Mrs. Harry Grimm, Mrs. Willard Croft and Mrs. Jones. Ushers were Mrs. Croft and Mrs. Fred Bancroft.

Schoolhouse Project For Cadet Scouts

Delaware Water Gap — Cadet Girl Scouts of Troop 339 have started work on their World Schoolhouse project. They are making cobbler aprons to be sent to school children of the Philippines. They will fill the apron pockets with pencils, papers and books to read. The ingathering of these aprons will be held March 14 in a District 5 Juliette Low rally.

They entertained at a Coed Valentine party on Feb. 14 at the firehall from 7 to 10 p.m. Yona Geshensky served as chairman, with Patsy Werkheiser and Joan Smith in charge of entertainment and Carol Wilson of refreshments. The Scouts baked the cake and all the girls helped with decorating the hall with red and white streamers and balloons, motto hearts and cupids. Games and dances were featured.

In addition to the committee girls present were Patty and Kathy Narkovitch, Nancy Ace and Nancy Richards.

Guests were John Narkovitch, Kenneth Beidler, James Singer, Jerry Congdon, Mark Williams, John Possinger, Brian Unangst, Arnold Storm. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Matos were chaperones.

Mrs. Brong President Of Women's Society

Saylorsburg — Mrs. Joan Brong was elected president of the Women's Society of World Service at the meeting held recently at the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Mrs. Emma Bartholomew was elected vice president; Mrs. Mary Serfass, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Lucy Rinker, secretary of spiritual life; Mrs. Ruth Swift, secretary of missionary education; and Mrs. Margaret Block, secretary of missionary education and youth and of Christian social relations; Mrs. Frances Fox, secretary of church relations.

Joan Brong was elected delegate to attend the WSCS convention to be held at Albright College on June 27.

The lesson, "The Church in Southern Asia" was presented by Mrs. Mary Serfass who discussed India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Nepal.

The WSCS is selling Easter candy with orders being taken by Joan Brong, Shirley Eckley or Ruth Swift.

Fox-Smith Engagement Announced

Hunters Range — Mr. and Mrs. Martin K. Smith of Hunters Range Club, Pike Co., announce the engagement of their daughter Carol Ann, to Charles D. Fox of Morgans Hill Road, Easton RD 4.

Miss Smith will be graduated in May from East Stroudsburg State College.

They plan an early June wedding.

Farewell For Mrs. Knecht From Fire Aux.

Tobyhanna — Members of the Coolbaugh Twp. Fire Co. Aux. gathered at the home of Mrs. Nicholas Paculli, Main St., on Tuesday night for a surprise farewell party for Mrs. Lloyd Knecht.

Mrs. Knecht who is moving to California recently resigned as president of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Thomas Taylor, new president, presented her with a going-awey gift from the auxiliary.

Mrs. Pacuilli was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Joseph Regan Sr.

Band Concert At Salem Church

Saylorsburg — A band concert was given on Sunday night at the Evangelical United Brethren Church by the concert band of the Musicians Union Local 577 of Bangor and Stroudsburg directed by Walter Lane.

The concert included the following numbers: march Grandioso; the first movement of "The Unfinished Symphony;" a medley of hymn tunes; selections from "The Student Prince;" "Belle of Chicago," "High School Cadets;" a song, "Vision;" and "Panis Angelicus."

Rev. Clair Matz gave the Scripture reading.

Brotherhood Venison Supper

East Stroudsburg — A roast venison supper will be served tonight to the men of the Lutheran Church Men of Grace Church, East Stroudsburg at 6:30.

The roast venison will be provided and each man will bring a supplementary covered dish. A round table discussion on the parish constitution will be held following the meal. Emmett Flyte, president, invites all men of the parish to attend.

SHARING A BIRTHDAY celebration this Friday will be Jane Ann Cramer, left, who will be 8 on Feb. 21 and Nancy Lynn Cramer, who is 4 on Feb. 20. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cramer, Wooddale.

Weekend At Pocono Resort First Price For Contest

Stroudsburg — The winner of the first prize in the current Good Outdoor Manners Contest will be given a weekend vacation at the White Beauty View Resort on Lake Wallenpaupack with his or her parents, the local committee announced yesterday.

The contest is open to school students in grades 4 through 9 and is being sponsored by the Monroe County Good Outdoor Manners Committee to combat unsightly littering and damaging vandalism.

In addition to the prize of a weekend for the winner and his parents at White Beauty View, the committee has announced that there will be four other cash prizes given locally. In addition the Monroe County winners will be eligible to compete for statewide awards.

The manager of the resort, LeRoy Guccini, has agreed that the winner may select any one of the following for weekends for his stay at the resort: May 2, 9, 17 or 23. He has also specified that the winner and his parents may check in Friday night before those dates. The winner will make his own reservations with Guccini, who is an active member of the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau

Funds for the cash prizes have been donated by Robert Weichel of the Weichel Buick Co.; Clifford Cramer of the R. C. Cramer Lumber Co.; and the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

The contest this year is a word-building contest, which opened Feb. 1 and will close March 15 with entries to be sent to John Withrow, chairman of the Monroe County Good Outdoor Manners Committee, Box 287, Stroudsburg.

Contestants are asked to form as many words as they can from the letters in the following sentence "Howdy says having good outdoor manners means a better Pennsylvania." Entry blanks and book covers have been distributed to Monroe County students in the fourth through the ninth grade.

Through the "Howdy" book covers, the Monroe County Good Outdoor Manners Committee feels that they may have a lasting and beneficial impression on the minds of school-age children. "Howdy" is the good outdoor manners raccoon.

The illustration on the front of the book covers was created by the artist Ned Smith of Halifax who specializes in outdoor subjects. It shows the picture of a family group preparing to leave a picnic area with Howdy helping them stow containers and paper in the proper containers.

For the back cover, he has produced a cartoon showing a rural Pennsylvania scene with evidence of littering and vandalism with a landowner nailing up a "No Trespassing" poster, while the hunter, fisherman, hiker, picknicker and others look on as they are barred from the countryside.

Clubwomen See School Art Display

Saylorsburg — The Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg had its own art show at the February meeting featuring drawings and sketches made by the school children. Mrs. Donald Hunsicker, chairman of fine arts, spoke on art and exhibited the pictures. The meeting was held at the Chestnuthill School in Brodheadsville.

Mrs. Oscar Bonser presided at the business meeting when many suggestions for raising money were advanced. A collection was taken for the Penny Art Fund. Mrs. Grant Knowles, program chairman, read a poem, "Things to Give Up During Lent."

Mrs. Lloyd Mackes and the members of her committee served refreshments from a Valentine table.

The March 11 meeting will be held at the Hamilton Twp. School.

Lee Kipp, 83 Cooks Own Birthday

LaAnna — Lee Kipp, 82, whose fame as a cook is well-known in this area, outdid himself recently when he served a roast duck dinner to ten guests as a preliminary to the celebration of his 83rd birthday on Feb. 21.

Mr. Kipp, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith, LaAnna, prepared and served, with the aid of Mrs. Smith, the dinner, which was topped off with strawberry shortcake.

His guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kipp; Larry, Paula and Dale Kipp, all of Lake Paupac; Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Rake, South Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Smith; and Mrs. Fred Bancroft Jr., South Sterling.

Music Parents Schedule Dinner Before Concerts

Stroudsburg — The Stroud Union Music Parents Assn. have advanced the time of the dinner meeting next Monday night so that members may attend the Pocono Community Concert.

Members are asked to have all covered dishes in the kitchen by 6:10 so that dinner may be served promptly at 6:15.

The Mountaineers of Stroud Union High School under the direction of Numa Snyder will sing.

At the business meeting, final plans will be made for the round and square dance to be held at the Clearview School on March 7 at 8 p.m. All music parents are invited.

Whether A Job Is Creative Depends On Point Of View

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

"I'm a recent divorcee about ot look for a job," writes a reader, "and since I'll be working for the rest of my life, I want to get started in a secretarial job with a future.

"To make this future have any meaning, however, I'll need to work in a field that's creative instead of routine.

Immediate Start

"Consequently, it's important that I get started, without losing any time, in one of the so-called "glamour" or "creative" jobs where I'll have opportunity.

"What are the things I'll need to do to find this kind of job?"

As a starter, you'll need to ask yourself exactly what you mean when you say "I want a 'glamour' or 'creative' job."

Different Meanings

To some people this means one thing. To others it's something different. And, standing between both of the groups, we sometimes find ourselves wishing that the words "glamour" or "creative" jobs had never been manufactured since at best they are only loose terms that clutter up our minds — unless we know in our minds what the terms mean to us.

Most of the time we find that most people think of "glamour" or "creative" jobs in connection with television, radio, advertising, public relations, fashion, writing and publishing.

Exciting Ingredient

This in itself is all well and good because, along with the pressure and work, there is excitement and glamour in each one of these fields. But how much glamour will belong to you comes right back to the question of knowing what a "glamour" job means to you personally.

If, for example, having a "glamour" job means dealing with creative people rather than doing the creative work yourself, you'll probably be happy as a secretary in these surroundings.

One girl, for example, for whom this fact comes true works on a weekly magazine doing routine work for everyone. But she thinks of her work as a "glamour" job simply because she's around creative people and working in the same atmosphere.

But on the other side of the coin, another girl, hired as a secretary on another small magazine, lasted only three short months because she never got a chance to do creative work herself.

Possible Disappointment

Consequently, if you're like this girl, you may be disappointed in the job you think is going to be "creative" when you find out that all the work you get to do is handling the routine for the people who create! At least that's the way it is when you start on the job.

The only solution, in this case, is to bide your time. There's no shortcut to doing creative work.

69 Percent Drive To Work In County

Special to the Record

NEW YORK — A nationwide survey conducted by the government to determine just how people travel to work each day discloses that, in Monroe County, most of them go by private car or car pool.

No less than 69 per cent of the local residents who go to work do so by car, the figures show. The remainder get to their jobs by a variety of other means.

The purpose of the survey was to obtain data that would be useful in an attack on the nation's transportation maze, which is getting worse every year.

The findings have just been released by the Department of Commerce in a voluminous publication entitled "Journey to Work." It is based on data gathered by the Census Bureau.

The figures for Monroe County show that 10,407 local residents, out of a total of 15,050 who go to work, do so by car or by car pool.

64 Per Cent In U.S.

Compared with the 69 per cent locally who travel that way, there are 64 per cent in the United States as a whole who use automobiles to commute to work, 51 per cent throughout the Middle Atlantic States and 61 per cent in the State of Pennsylvania.

The modes of travel that are used by most people in a particular community depend largely on where they live in relation to their jobs, on whether their area is lightly or heavily populated and on how available are buses and other forms of public transportation.

Some people, in fact, don't ride to work at all. In Monroe County, for example, there are 895 persons, such as doctors, farmers, shop keepers and the like, who are listed as working at home.

Another 2,228 locally live near enough to their jobs to walk to work.

As to the rest, the report shows that there are 69 who travel by buses or streetcars, 77 who use rail transit, 473 who use motorcycles, taxicabs or other vehicles and 901 who are in the "not reported" column.

The choice is closely related to income, density of population and car ownership.

New roads have encouraged more people to move to the suburbs and have added still further to the use of cars. The result has been more bottlenecks and increased congestion in the central business districts.

Two-Car Crash In Eastburg

EAST STROUDSBURG — A two-car collision yesterday at 7:30 a.m. near the intersection of Normal St., and S. Prospect St., East Stroudsburg resulted in no injuries, according to East Stroudsburg Police.

Harold Van Buskirk, 17, of 204 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg was traveling south on Prospect when Myrtle Fisher of 29 Stemple St., East Stroudsburg, reportedly pulled out of Normal St. into the path of the Van Buskirk vehicle.

Special Navy Air Program

STROUDSBURG — Mark A. Farrell, petty officer of the Navy recruiting station, Stroudsburg, announced yesterday that during February, area high school graduates interested in aviation can enlist in the Navy and be guaranteed a trade specialty schooling in the Navy's aviation program.

Upon successful completion of recruit training, aviation minded young men will be assigned to one of fourteen schools in the aviation field, Farrell said. He added, the Navy airman is an important and essential part of a close knit team.

No Permits For 'Paupack Boaters

HAWLEY — It will not be necessary during the 1964 season for boaters on Pennsylvania Power & Light Company's Lake Wallenpaupack to obtain permits for their boats.

George Michaels, superintendent at the lake said yesterday that owners of motorboats, rowboats, sailboats, canoes and other boats will not require permits to operate on the lake during the coming season.

The only exception is for boats of unusual size or speed which will still require special permission of the superintendent. Houseboats and airplane-propeller-driven boats, as heretofore, will not be allowed on Lake Wallenpaupack.

Mr. Michaels pointed out that the new regulations are intended to make the privileges of Lake Wallenpaupack as convenient as possible for vacationers. If the new "no permit" system is successful, it will become a permanent policy at Lake Wallenpaupack.

Picking Candidates, Citizens Part Topics

Pipher, McFadden Speak To Demos

STROUDSBURG — Stuart F. Pipher, Monroe County commissioner, and William McFadden of the East Stroudsburg State College social studies faculty, were the speakers at the second meeting of the three-part political workshop series of the Democratic Club of the Stroudsburgs at the YMCA Tuesday night.

Donald James, club president, announced that the first vice president, John Grogan, was leaving the area, and that the nominating committee had recommended that Atty. J. Joseph McCluskey be moved from second vice president to the vacancy, and had nominated John Kupice as second vice president. They were elected.

The club also voted to change its by-laws so that delegates to national conventions would be exempt from the rule that no officer or executive committee member should hold or run for political office, and further so that members running for local office should be on leave of absence until after it was determined whether they would be elected.

Frank Butler, chairman for the committee for the Monroe Day Dinner, announced that it would be held at the Penn-Stroud in Stroudsburg on Saturday, April 25. He also said it was anticipated that a well known speaker would be present, and probably a direct descendant of President James Monroe.

Pipher spoke on the subject "How to Pick Your Candidates and Work With Them."

He pointed out that most American voters cast only half a vote, because they vote only in general elections and thereby waste or throw away half of their effectiveness when they do not participate in primary elections. "Primaries are the key to politics," he said.

Not Closed

"There is no way for party candidates to get on the general election ballot except through the primaries, and primaries are the exclusive gate through which all party candidates must pass. Ninety - nine per cent of all candidates for all offices are nominated as a result of primaries.

"In some states the primaries are closed, and voters can vote only within their own registered party. In some states, primaries are open and voters can vote in the primary of either party. Unfortunately, too few voters come out for the primaries, no matter what type they are, and as a result a small group of voters sometimes actually controls elections because of the inaction of the other voters."

He also pointed out that the registration committee of the Monroe County Democratic Party would hold an open public registration rally at the YMCA in Stroudsburg on Thursday evening, Feb. 20, at which Mrs. Grace M. Sloan, state treasurer, would be the featured speaker. He urged anyone interested in politics to attend the meeting, and to register to vote if not already registered.

McFadden spoke on, "The Essential Nature of Citizen Participation in a Democracy." He pointed out that the very word democracy means authority of the people, and that with this authority came certain responsibilities on the people.

As examples he noted that in order for a democratic society to flourish, there must be a climate of literacy, economics, social movement, and belief in democracy.

Also, that other responsibilities of citizens in a democracy included facing the challenges raised by the times, such as the current challenge of the cold war, the argument that democracy is not realistic because men are not good enough to make it work, and the current problem if public boredom.

"The only way," he said, "to counter these arguments is for the citizens of a democracy to meet their obligations. They cannot have the benefits of a democratic society without accepting the responsibilities also."

The next meeting of the club will be held in the YMCA, Stroudsburg, Tuesday, March 17.

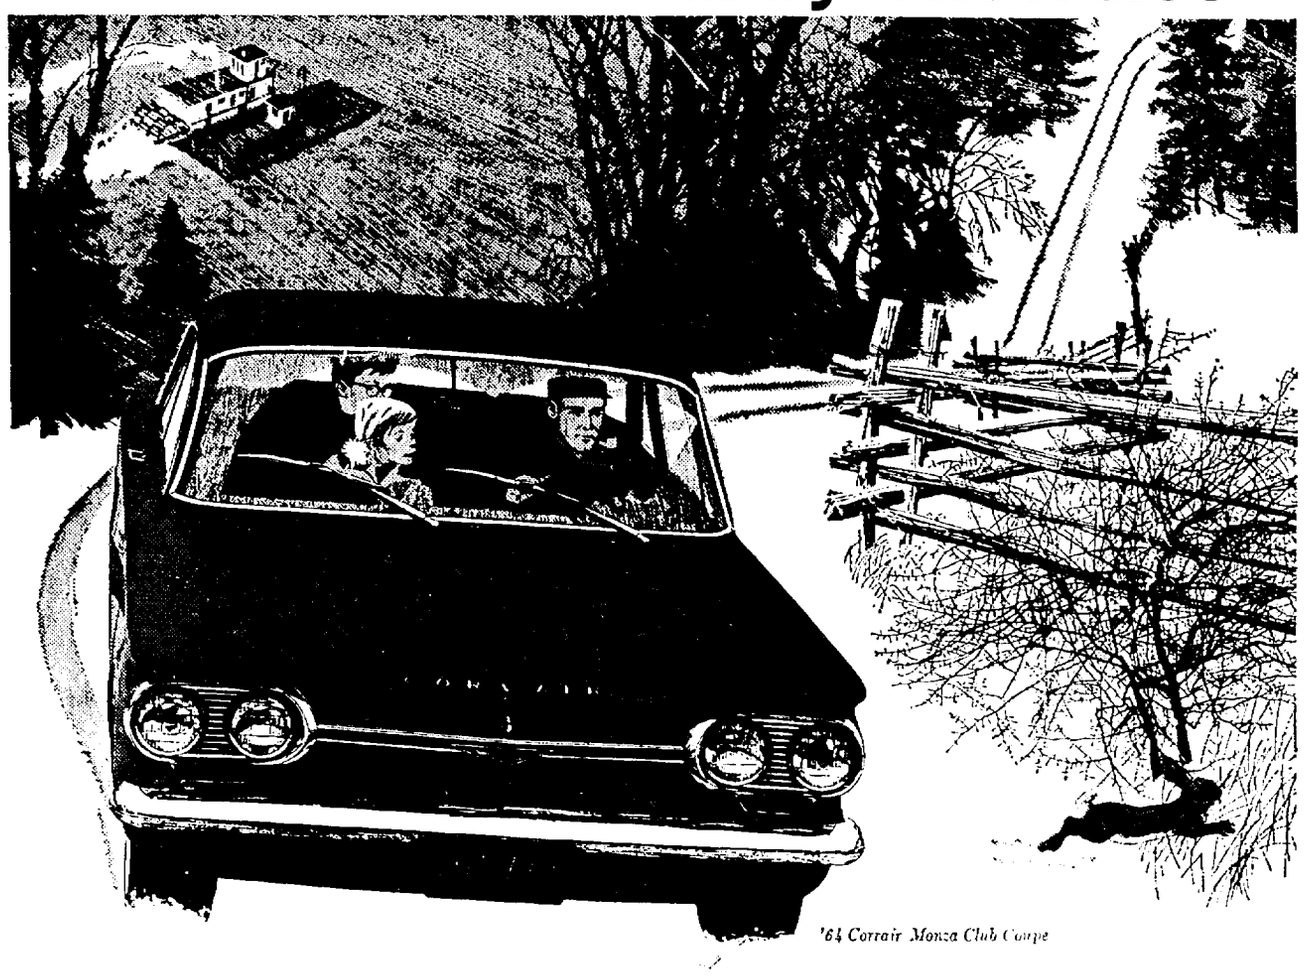
'64 Corvair Monza by Chevrolet



'64 Corvair Monza Club Coupe

It's got a frisky new engine

(that puts superior traction under you)

Why? Rear-engine traction. The engine weight over Corvair's rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power without any assist from special winter driving paraphernalia.

Reassuring to know this time of year—and also in the months to come when all that tidy white countryside turns into a melting pot that's likely to add to the misery.

Another thing about Corvair's engine: It's bigger this year. Nearly 19 per cent more power in the standard version. Which is something you'll appreciate most any time of year, fair weather or foul.

You'll also appreciate not having to fool around with antifreeze. And not having to flush the radiator or fuss with hose connections. The engine's air cooled.

Matter of fact, we have a feeling that if more people knew what a cinch Corvair makes winter driving, there wouldn't be quite so many looking for excuses to duck South this time every year.

But then you never know. Corvair's a real kick to drive in warm weather, too. Why not just try one at your dealer's and decide for yourself?

From Davis Cup

Aussies May Bar Emerson

MELBOURNE, (AP) —The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia has called a special meeting for Friday apparently to bar Roy Emerson and perhaps other players from the 1964 Davis Cup team.

The action would virtually kill Australia's hopes of recapturing the trophy from the United States, which won it last December in Adelaide.

Emerson, who has been feuding with Australian officials over restrictions on playing abroad, is the Australian champion and the country's No. 1 player. He won both singles matches against the United States last December.

Without him, the Australians, who have dominated the Davis Cup competition since World War II, might have trouble even qualifying for the 1964 challenge round.

They are challenging in the American Zone and probably would have to play the strong Mexican team of Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox in the mile-high atmosphere of Mexico City. Even powerful teams have found this a formidable assignment in the past.

Besides Emerson, two other Australian Davis Cup team members —Ken Fletcher and Bob Hewitt—face disciplinary action, and perhaps a ban, from the LTAA.

They, like Emerson, have announced defiance of an LTAA rule which forbids Australian players from receiving overseas expense allowances before March 31.

Emerson and Fletcher currently are playing in the U.S. Indoor Championships at Salisbury, Md., and both intend competing on the Caribbean circuit in defiance of the Australian rule.

Among Top Four

Fletcher is one of the top four players in Australia. Hewitt is the country's doubles ace. He and Fred Stolle are rated one of the best teams in the world.

Stolle, runner-up at Wimbledon last year to America's Chuck McKinley, and John Newcombe, the 19-year-old youngster who was a sensation in the 1963 challenge round at Adelaide, would be left to form the core of the Australian Davis Cup team. The rest of the team would have to be picked from youngsters, best of whom is the left-handed Tony Roche.

ESSC Defensive Ace

Marchalonis Is Selected Area 'Brite Star' Athlete

EAST STROUDSBURG — When Reggie Weiss of Shippensburg came into the East Stroudsburg State College arena last week, he not only was the leading scorer of the Pennsylvania State Colleges Basketball Conference, he was also leading the pack by more than 100 points.

Unstoppable? Who said so? Not Denny, anyway. He held Weiss to a scant 10 points, the lowest of the season for him, while netting 16 points himself.

For these reasons, Dennis Marchalonis has been named the "Brite Star" of the week in the Pocono - State Belt area.

While Denny was holding the talented scoring sensation of the PSCAC to his seasonal low, his mates ran wild to tie the season's high scoring mark for one game in the conference in this 1963-64 campaign with a 118-75 rout over the Red Raiders.

"I'm real pleased Denny's been awarded this honor," says his coach. "He's worked hard all year and he's very deserving of it."

With 169 points packed under his belt in 15 games, Denny is the third - highest scorer on the Warrior quintet, averaging 11.2 per game. He has hit for 60 field goals on 152 attempts for a percentage of 39.4. From the foul line, he has swished in 49 of 78 throws for a 62.8 percentage.

Primarily a defensive standout, Denny's biggest assets, according to Sissen, are his speed and reaction.

"He may be the fastest boy in school," says Sissen.

Born in Scranton, the 19-year-old social studies major played two years of varsity ball for Scranton Central which was undefeated in the tough Lackawanna League during his senior year. He averaged 11 points per game during his two seasons as a scholastic cager.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marchalonis, Dennis is planning a future as a social studies teacher and also hopes to serve in a coaching capacity.

Over 400 Veteran Golfers In PGA Seniors Tourney

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Many of the top golf stars of the past quarter-century, including winners of every major tournament, begin play Thursday in the PGA Seniors Championships.

The event drew more than 400 entries, a record field headed by the defending champion, Herman Barron, and a newcomer to the ranks, Sam Snead, who qualified by passing his 50th birthday.

Despite the challenge of Snead, still a very tough competitor in anybody's tournament, Barron is given an excellent chance to retain his crown.

Returning to competitive golf after a long absence, the 54-year-old Barron won last year with a remarkably consistent score of 67-67-69-69—272, a record low. He beat out John Barnum by two strokes.

Snead, ex-champion of the PGA, the Masters and the British Open, is a member of golf's Hall of Fame. Going against Slammin Sam, however, will be a tradition that freshmen usually don't win the tournament on their first try.

Presence of the stars of other years gives a rare flavor to this favorite event of golfers beyond their prime. Among them is Jock Hutchison, who won the first Seniors 25 years ago and has not missed one since.

Hall Of Famers

Eight of the players are Hall of Famers—Hutchison, Snead, Denny Shute, Gene Sarazen, Paul Runyan, Mike Brady, Fred McLeod and Dutch Harrison.

The tournament will be played over both courses at the new PGA National Golf Club, the 6,600-yard East Course and the 6,310-yard West Course. Par for each is 36-36—72.

Winner of the 72-hole event ending Sunday will earn $2,500 and a trip to Great Britain to play the British seniors champ. Last year, Barron beat the British titlist, George Evans.

P-D Track To Name Executive

PLAINS — Two prominent nationally known harness race track executives are being considered for the general managership of the Pocono Downs parimutuel race track, it was disclosed yesterday.

Victor C. Diehm of Hazleton, Pocono Downs president, said that the track owners are ready to decide on a successor to Ross Miller of Philadephia, current general manager, whose contract terminates March 1.

Miller has sold his stock interest to other stockholders.

With the engagement of a new general manager, Pocono Downs is expected to resume suspended construction work at the Plains Township site between Wilkes-Barre and Scranton.

Additional financial programming is being worked out in collaboration with several finance groups interested in Pocono Downs mortgages. These plans will be presented to Pennsylvania Harness Racing Commission for their review and approval.

Originally, Pocono Downs was slated to hold a 50-day racing meet starting July 3 but the postponement of construction and the weather now indicate that this date will be moved back, Diehm said, pointing out that no firm decision has been made by the P-D board.

Diehm said that the names of the potential general manager candidates will be turned over to Maj. Ralph Gardner, executive secretary of the state Harness Racing Commission.

Roman Brother Nips Mr. Brick

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Roman Brother nipped front-running Mr. Brick at the end of the $30,550 Everglades Stakes Wednesday as derby-age colts went through their final tests for the Flamingo.

Roman Brother, 1-2 favorite with the crowd of 23,990, ran the Flamingo distance of 1⅛ miles in 1:54 4-5 over a track labeled good to win by a head.

Journalist finished third and Bupers was fourth in the field of eight 3-year-olds. They were followed in order by Prince Florimel, Sacred River, Big Felly and Rosie's Boy. All except Prince Florimel, Big Felly and Rosie's Boy are eligible for the March 3 Flamingo Stakes.

Same Weight

Roman Brother carried 122 pounds, the same weight as Mr. Brick and Bupers, while Journalist packed 119.

Manuel Ycaza rated Roman Brother perfectly and had him third when they turned for home.

Mr. Brick, under Walter Blum, was still pounding away in front but Roman Brother drew alongside a few yards from the finish line and just got up. Journalist, under Wayne Chambers, was six lengths back with Bupers, under Bill Hartack, three lengths farther back.

Roman Brother has never been out of the money in nine starts and the $19,837.50 winner's share in the Everglades boosted his bankroll to $271,315. It also stamped him as a favorite for the rich Flamingo.

Body Of Hubbs Goes To Utah

SAN BERNAPDINO, Calif. (AP)— The body of baseball star Ken Hubbs arrived by train Wednesday from Provo, Utah.

Funeral services for the 22-year-old second baseman of the Chicago Cubs will be conducted Thursday in nearby Colton, his home town.

Hubbs and a friend, Dennis Doyle, were killed last Thursday when Hubbs' plane crashed on an ice-covered lake near Provo. Doyle was buried in Provo Tuesday.

Hubbs' funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in Colton High School's Whitmore Auditorium.

Grambling Presses Evansville

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Assumption's consistent Greyhounds are making rapid headway in The Associated Press small-college basketball poll. They jumped another two places to fourth this week, following victories over Merrimack and Lemoyne, both by 74-66 scores.

Meanwhile, Evansville's first-place edge over Grambling was cut to a single point, while Pan American remained in the No. 3 spot.

Assumption, which was eighth two weeks ago and sixth last week, is followed by Washington of St. Louis, Hofstra, Kentucky Wesleyan, Youngstown, Wittenberg and Western Carolina. The Greyhounds from Worcester, Mass. are 14-1.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through Saturday, Feb. 15 and points:

562 Turkeys Stocked In N.E. Pennsy

STROUDSBURG — More than 500 turkeys will be stocked in the Northeast Division of Pennsylvania during the next few days, it was announced yesterday by Roy W. Trexler, division supervisor.

The total stocking of 562 mature birds includes 90 males and 472 females.

They are being stocked at this time, he said, "to have the birds become accustomed to the range by the time nesting season comes around next spring."

He also noted that "This practice has proven to be extremely effective in establishing turkeys in different sections of the division."

Camelback 'Carnival' Set To Go

TANNERSVILLE — Camelback - in - the - Poconos will celebrate Washington's birthday weekend with its first winter carnival Friday through Sunday.

Among the highlights will be a complete demonstration of the Natur-Teknik method of ski - learning given by ski school instructors starting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. A torch light parade featuring all 27 instructors will be held at 6 p.m.

The program, under the direction of Ellsworth Moore, head of the Camelback ski school, also will include an all-day costume contest, a sloppy slalom event and a beauty contest which will be highlighted by the crowning of "Miss Natur-Teknik 1964." She will be selected from students enrolled in the ski school.

The day's events will be filmed by a New York studio as part of a new 27-minute color film now being produced by the Pocono resort industry for eventual distribution and showing all over the country.

To Lease Or Not To Lease?

'Friendly' Finley Fails To Agree With Mayor

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There was an amiable phone conversation Wednesday between antagonists Charles O. Finley and Mayor Ilus Davis over a lease for the Kansas City Athletics' use of Municipal Stadium, but it ended with the same result as previous talks — no agreement.

The Athletics' owner and city officials, unsuccessful in reaching agreement on terms of a lease, face a meeting Friday at Boston of American League club owners who will decide what to do about the Kansas City impasse.

Finley has insisted on a two-year lease. The city wants nothing less than a four-year agreement.

Finley called Davis Wednesday.

"You know, I was just wondering if there was any possibility of getting together on my two-year proposal," Finley said. "You know, if we could do that, it would take care of a lot of our problems. We probably wouldn't even have to have a meeting Friday."

"Well, Charlie," the mayor replied, "I have told you several times that I don't believe that a two-year deal would be in the best interest of the city."

"Uh huh," said Finley. "I did have some hopes you might reconsider."

Finley then mentioned a three-year lease, suggested by a city councilman last week.

"I did have a sort of a three-year lease — only on a year-to-year basis — that I inherited from the previous owner. Mayor there are some other places that have three years, Baltimore and Milwaukee. I think there might be another one or so.

"The league would be very happy if we could work out a lease. Baseball, in general, would be."

The mayor ignored the reference to the three-year lease and replied.

"Well, Charlie, we are just not interested in a two-year lease."

"No interest in that today, huh?" Finley said. "Well, I'll see you later? Nice talking to you, mayor."

Meet Again

And there seems no doubt the two will meet later—in Boston.

Just as the call came from Finley, Davis was announcing that he and the city counselor, Herbert Hoffman, would attend the league meeting Friday.

The meeting, set after the league had extended the deadline for a stadium agreement, may provide an answer to the long stalemate between Finley and the city.

Earlier, Joseph Cronin, league president, had rejected a request that the meeting be expanded so that Finley could present a request to move the club to Oakland.

In the midst of the long fruitless negotiations, Finley had made efforts to move the club to both Louisville and Oakland.

Admits He's A Blowhard

Clay Bares His Soul

NEW YOR K(AP) — Cassius Clay admits he's a big blowhard, but he says there's purpose in his loquacious madness.

"The more I blow, the more people come out to see me get beaten," the heavyweight challenger said in a baring of the soul in the latest issue of Sports Illustrated.

"And you know what? The more I talked the more I convinced myself. I believe in myself so much by now it's embarrassing."

The colorful Clay, who meets champion Sonny Liston next Tuesday in Miami Beach for boxing's biggest crown, acknowledged that he owed his success as much to his active lip as to his fists.

"Shout And Holler"

"Where do you think I would be next week if I didn't know how to shout and holler and make the public sit up and take notice?" Clay added.

"I would be poor for one thing, and I would probably be down in Louisville, Ky., my hometown, washing windows or running an elevator and saying 'Yes, sub' and 'No, sub' and knowing my place."

The 22-year-old challenger said he taught himself to "throw the jive" — as he puts it — and patterned himself after the wrestler, Gorgeous George.

"Build-Up Gate"

"Part of my plan to get the fight has made me say some pretty insulting things about Sonny Liston but I might as well tell you I've done that mostly to get people talking about the fight and build up the gate," Clay said.

"I actually have a certain amount of respect for Liston; he's champion, isn't he? That doesn't mean I think he's going to stay champion. I have too much confidence in my own ability to think I'm beaten before we start."

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston promised Dayton fan Timothy Smith on Wednesday he will finish Cassius Clay in one to three rounds of their title fight Tuesday.

Liston made the promise in a telephone conversation from Miami Beach after Smith, a 14-year-old muscular dystrophy victim, asked the champ:

"What round are you going to win in?"

"Don't Worry"

When Tim later added, "I hope you win," the burly champ replied: "Don't worry, I will." The three-minute conversation followed the delivery of an autographed color picture of Liston taken especially for Tim.

The 16-by-20-inch mounted picture, showing Liston with his massive championship belt, was taken Tuesday and flown to Dayton by Delta Air Lines.

The events leading to the phone call started when relatives living in Miami told a newsman they would like a picture of Liston for the ailing Dayton youth.

Liston's publicity manager called the Smiths Tuesday to tell them that the champ would call their son Wednesday.

PM Ski Club Sets Dance

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Ski Club has completed plans for the George Washington birthday dance Saturday in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door. New members of the club also will be welcomed.

It was also announced that Keith Megargle will be sponsored by the club as an entrant in the Eastern Council Junior Race at Big Boulder March 1.

Next meeting of the club will be held Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. in the Penn-Stroud.

Warriors Host To Huskies

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Warriors of East Stroudsburg State College seek their third win in the Pennsylvania State Colleges Basketball Conference tonight when they take on the Huskies of Bloomsburg on the ESSC hardwoods starting at 8:15 p.m.

Coach Ken Sissen's ESSC quint has won but two games in 15 starts this season but has shown rapid improvement in recent outings.

Last Tuesday, for instance, the Warriors snapped an 11-game losing streak by shellacking Shippensburg, 118-75, tying the season's high score for one game in the conference. The team looked like anything but a long-time loser.

Heading the top scorers for the Warriors are Harvey Branyan with 229 points, Warren Landis with 174 and Dennis Marchalonis with 169. This trio also represents the team's top rebounders. In that department, Landis has 202, Branyan 181, and Marchalonis 107.

The Warriors have totaled 1,123 points in 15 games, while the opposition has tallied 1,300.

State Chamber: Says U.C. Changes To Help Monroe

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce declared yesterday that if amendments to the state's Unemployment Compensation Law now before the state legislature become law many of Monroe County's future claimants could benefit by as much as $5 weekly.

Based on the figures compiled by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, A. L. Edmonds, its Executive Director said:

"Although jobless benefit checks now going to nearly 819 current claimants from Monroe County would not be affected by these proposed changes, covered workers who might become unemployed through no fault of their own after the bill becomes law could benefit due to an increase in maximum jobless pay checks from $40 to $45 weekly.

"Statisticians in the State's Bureau of Employment Services estimate that, on a statewide basis, roughly 45 per cent of future benefit claimants would receive these increases, 30 per cent would have no change in jobless benefits, 15 per cent would receive some cuts in duration of benefits and only 10 per cent of casual or marginal members of the state's labor force would be eliminated.

"If, for example, the proposed changes were now law and we used the state's own formula, we would find that 369 of the unemployed workers of Monroe County who received benefit checks the week ending February 7, 1964 would have had jobless pay increases of from $1 to $5, 245 would have had no change in their benefit rate, 123 might have had some reduction and only 82 who no longer can be considered full-time members of the work force would have been eliminated.

Represents All Claimants

"Those figures represent all claimants who filed through Unemployment Compensation offices located in Monroe County, and in some instances, may also counties residents of nearby counties where no such state facility is available.

"Yet, of even more importance to the workers who are steadily employed is the fact that the fund from which they are paid during temporary periods of unemployment already is broke.

"As of February 3, 1964, the balance in the state's Unemployment Compensation Fund amounted to only $134 million, as against a $169 million debt still owed the Federal Government — or an actual deficit of $35 million.

"This means that any future business recession similar to that of the last one only three years ago would exhaust the money in a little under four months.

Vital Stake

"Since, moreover, no insurance policy including Unemployment Compensation purchased solely by Monroe County employers to pay their workers during periods of unemployment is worth anything unless the money is available to pay claimants in time of need, it would seem to us that all workers have a vital stake in legislation now before the State legislature to strengthen the fund itself.

"The Legislative Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the Pocono Mountains is on record favoring such legislation for these reasons."

Feed Grain Benefits Detailed

STROUDSBURG — Growers who participate in the 1964 Feed Grain Program will have definite advantages over growers who elect not to participate, according to A. W. Martin, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Monroe County Committee.

First, he explained, the participating grower earns a diversion payment for reducing his 1964 acreage of corn, barley, or grain sorghum, thereby assuring himself of a substantial income from the diverted acres regardless of drought, flood, insects, hail, or crop disease.

This is also true of the price-support payment which is made on the acreage planted in 1964 to one or more of the three feed grains — no matter what disposition is made of the crop, the price-support payment is assured.

Third, price-support loans and purchase agreements will be available on a participating farmer's entire 1964 production of the three feed grains.

And, if the participating farmer requests it, an advance payment of part of the diversion payment will be made at the time of signing up or as soon as possible after that time.

Growers take part in the feed grain program by diverting at least 20 percent of the farm's feed grain base acreage into an approved conserving use and carrying out other provisions of the program. If more than the minimum acreage is diverted, a higher rate of payment will apply.

The minimum rate of payment is based on one-fifth of the county's total price-support rate; the maximum or higher rate is based on one-half of the support rate.

Farm operators may file applications to take part in the 1964 Feed Grain Program at the ASCS County Office. The signup period extends from Feb. 10 through Mar. 27.

Johnson Seeks 'Brain Power'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson set up what the White House called a "wide-open window for ideas" and asked the nations leading scholars, thinkers, writers, teachers and specialists to use it for the benefit of the government.

To co-ordinate the brain power output, Johnson tapped Dr. Eric F. Goldman, Princeton University history professor.

The White House called it "a unique approach to channel the nations best thinking to the White House.

Some people already have been contacted by Goldman, the White House said, and ideas and proposals already have begun to flow in. Some of them, it said, relate to re-examining federal, state and local relationships.

What Johnson wants, the White House said, is "to generate fresh, new and imaginative ideas for the benefit of the government."

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said this was the President's idea, worked out in a number of conversations with Goldman.

Goldman will draw no federal pay as a consultant and adviser to the President, will keep his professorship at Princeton, but will be on loan to the White House part time.

Second Siamese Twin Dies

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP)—The second of infant Siamese twin boys died Tuesday night in Chelsea Naval Hospital, five days after he was separated by surgery following the death of his brother.

Michael Richard, born Jan. 17 in Naples, Italy, was joined at the head with his twin, Mark. Michael had been on the critical list since the separation last Friday after Mark had died of a heart complication.

Two Fallout Shelters In Greene

NEWFOUNDLAND—Two fall out shelters are in operation in Greene Township, according to the Greene Township Civil Defense Unit which met recently at Hemlock Grove Methodist Church, Greentown.

One of the shelters is at the Promised Land Catholic Church basement, and the other is at the Roemerville Moravian Church basement. Both have been approved by Harrisburg, and are fully equipped both as a shelter and a first aid station.

During the session this week, the unit elected Charles Walter president for 1964. He succeeds John Glasner in the office. Richard Weiland was elected vice president, and will become president next year. Herbert Peet was re-elected secretary, and Russell VanBuskirk, Jr., was re-elected treasurer.

New Assistant

Samuel DeFrehn became the new assistant chief of the auxiliary police. He was chosen for the post vacated by Robert Obert, who moved into the chief's post after the death of Louis Arnold recently.

Dr. Frank A. Uridel, Newfoundland physician, presented a program on emergency treatments during the meeting.

Seven new members were welcomed: Wilbur Bastian, Helen Bastien, Alvin Crocker, Paul Williams, Richard Simons, Albert Haldaman and Evelyn Haldaman.

The C. D. unit will meet next on March 5 at the Promised Land Inn at 8 p.m. Greene Township residents interested in joining or observing are welcome.

Portland

Mrs. Ertie Wagner has returned to her home in York after spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bartron at Columbia, N. J. RD.

Mrs. Raymond Transue will be hostess to the V. C. C. Card Club at her home on Delaware Ave. on Saturday, February 29th.

Pen Argyl Budget Set At $132,962

PEN ARGYL — Pen Argyl Borough Council has tentatively approved a budget of $132,962.89 for 1964. The eight mill tax on real estate and the $5 per capita tax remains the same as last year.

Anticipated income is $106,510.44. This figure, plus the $26,416.45 balance from last year will provide the $132,962.89.

Real estate taxes are expected to bring $54,335.44 into the general fund. Other sources of income are: beverage licenses, $950; plumbing licenses, $200; building permits, $800; street permits, $125; motor vehicle violations, $350; ordinance violations, $150, and parking meters, $4,000.

Estimated receipts from special assessments total $44,500. This is broken down into $30,000 from earned income tax; $11,500 from the per capita tax, and $3,000 bills collectable from Bangor Gas Co.

Expenditures are $31,675, administration; $15,625, police; $5,410, fire; $30,200, Health and Sanitation, sewer expenses and garbage collection; $36,476.89, highways; $11,000, park, and $2,540, Civil Defense.

A breakdown of the administrative expenses show $360 for the mayor's salary, $1,920 for councilmen's salaries, $4,200 for the borough secretary's salary, and $1,250 for the secretary's salary.

Other expenditures for administration are treasurer, $950; auditors, $155; legal, $1,400; borough engineer, $800; office supplies, $500; other expenses, $500; addressograph, $300; bonds, $20; association expenses, $400; tax collector's fee, $1,900, bond for tax collector, $170; building repairs, $9,000; fuel, light and water, $1,600; telephone, $500; equipment, $100, and insurance policies, $3,550.

Budgeted for the police is $4,600, chief's salary; $4,400, assistant chief's salary, $2,000 for extra police, and $300 for uniforms.

Other expenses in the department are supplies, $150; gas and oil, $250; traffic signals, $300; meter repairs, $200; call system, $3,000; convention, $125, and vehicle repairs, $300.

Expenses for fire protection are estimated as follows: $350, fire chief's salary; $110, assistant fire chief's salary; school, $200; vehicle repairs, $600; gas and oil, $250; alarm system, $1,000; supplies, $1,200; contributions, $300, and hydrant rental, $1,400.

Health and sanitation expenses are estimated at $200, for sewage expenses, $16,000 and garbage collection, $14,000.

A breakdown of the highways budget shows $12,000 for labor; $13,826.89 for material, and $300 for street signs.

Other expenses in the department are $1,600, equipment repair; $7,500, street lighting; $500, gas and oil, and $750 equipment rental.

Park expenditures are estimated as follows: manager's salary, $4,100; extra help, $2,100; donations, $4,000; recreational program, $500, and repairs, $300.

PV High Club Aids Family Hit By Fire

BRODHEADSVILLE — Members of the Fin, Fur and Feather Club at Pleasant Valley High School in Brodheadsville, have collected $50 for the Keiper family who lost their home and clothing in a fire Feb. 5.

Richard Frantz, president of the club, yesterday turned the money over to Robert Andrews, club advisor and member of the high school faculty.

Andrews said that until yesterday he did not know the boys in the club had taken any action on the idea. He said he would turn the money over to the family today.

The family of seven lost most of their household and personal belongings when their home burned Wednesday, Feb. 5. Last week the family rented a home from Lawrence Smale. The The home is located on a road between Kresgeville and Jonas.

During the time of the "burnout" and last weekend Mr. and Mrs. Keiper and three of their five children were staying with Keiper's mother near Kunkletown. Two older girls stayed with girl friends in Kresgeville.

Frantz said, "Some of the fellows in the club went out recently and knocked on doors of people in the area."

Collections totaled $47.50 before they were turned over to Andrews and Frantz said, "Wait a minute. I want to add $2.50 to that to make it an even $50."

The Fin, Fur and Feather Club is an outdoor club consisting of high school pupils interested in fishing, hunting, trapping and conservation. One of the club's main projects, at present, is the completing of a rifle range in the Chestnuthill Elementary School's basement.

Two Women Hurt In Two Accidents

STROUDSBURG — Two area accidents resulted in injuries to two women Tuesday because of hazardous road conditions.

Evelyn Frederick of 180 Spring St., East Stroudsburg allegedly struck the car of Oscar Zimmerman of 82 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg as he pulled out of the driveway of his home. Zimmerman told police he could not see the Frederick vehicle because of parked cars and the snow.

The accident resulted in damages of $750. Traffic was snarled about 20 minutes until a wrecker was able to remove the vehicles.

Mrs. Frederick was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where she was treated for lacerations of the thumb and left knee.

In the second accident, Mrs. Lucy Hoffner, 42, a car passenger, of Saylorsburg RD 1 was admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County where she was treated for lacerations of the scalp and possible knee injuries. She is being held for observation and is listed in fair condition.

William Prunell, 28, of Mountainville, N. Y. was traveling west on Rt. 209 at 6:10 p.m. about a mile and a half west of Brodheadsville when his vehicle hit an ice spot on the road and crossed over the lane and struck the vehicle of Allen Hoffner, 53, of Saylorsburg RD 1 in a head on collision, according to State Police of the Fern Ridge substation. Mrs. Hoffner was a passenger in the Hoffner vehicle.

Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $700.

$19,410 Sanitary Budget

PEN ARGYL — Pen Argyl Borough Council has tentatively approved a sanitary budget of $19,410 for 1964.

The total operation costs are $15,130 and administration expenses of $3,780.

A breakdown of the operational costs are as follows: $4,500, chief operator; $1,200, assistant operator; $50 per week for salary and $400 in fees for a total of $3,000; $1,530, chlorine; $750, fuel oil; $1,000, water; $1,500, electric power; $100, telephone; $750, equipment maintenance, and $800, supplies.

The administrative breakdown indicates secretary-treasurer, $500; billing, $475; collection, $440; supplies, $250; insurance, $200; social security, $315; engineering, $1,000, and auditors, $600.

Bangor Council Tentatively Approves $191,112 Budget

BANGOR — Bangor Borough Council has tentatively approved a $191,112.89 budget for 1964. They will vote on the budget at their next meeting Monday, March 2, in the Town Hall at 7:30 p.m.

William J. Sleeman, secretary, said, "The millage will remain at seven mills on real estate, 20 mills on occupation, and the $5 per capita tax. These are the same as last year."

The estimated income is anticipated at $70,126.25 from real estate taxes; $10,299.90, occupation tax; $15,903, per capita tax, and $55,000 from the earned income tax, which is one-half of one per cent.

Miscellaneous income shows $1,000, delinquent taxes; $10,000, parking meters; $4,000, licenses, fines and permits; $2,000, beverage licenses; $15,792.98, reimbursement from Northampton County, and $1,241, Bangor Gas Company.

Expenses totaling $152,269.89 are as follows: $250, association dues; $4,400, Bangor Memorial Park attendant's salary; $500, improvements for Bangor Memorial Park; $1,000, Bangor Public Library; $1,775, borough engineering; $10,000, building and grounds; $464.89, replacement and improvements; Civil Defense, $500; $5,000, fire department equipment and expenses.

Other Expenses

Also, $850, health board salary and expenses; $4,500, insurance; $1,500, legal department; $550, military and civic groups; $5,000, mobile equipment and repairs; $500, plumbing inspector's fee; $18,500, police department; $950, police pension fund; $750, printing; $5,000, radio communications; $8,900, salaries for officials; $2,880, councilmen's salaries; $14,100, sanitation department; $500, sewage disposal plant.

Also, $2,600, social security; $20,000, payment toward bond indebtness on the storm sewers; $20,000, street department; $14,000, street lighting; $3,000, tax collector fees and expenses; $3,800, earned income tax collector fees, and $500, visiting nurses.

Other expenses in the budget totaling $38,843 include $4,543 for rebuilding Market St. and Eighth St.; $13,100, rebuilding of So. Main St. and the bridge on that street; $1,200, replacing old lighting at Bangor Public Library, and $20,000 for a new fire truck.

West End R-G Okays Motions

GILBERT — The motion to give free membership, guest buttons and posters to landowners of 20 acres or more of West End Rod and Gun Club land was passed at its recent meeting.

This was decided because of the increase in costs to the farmer in taxes and maintenance. A motion was also passed to show the appreciation of the club for the cooperation on the farmers part in the past.

Another motion passed reveals that dues of the class B member were raised to $3.50 per year. This was passed to ease the financial burden of the club, according to Joe Harrison.

Cub Pack 83 Members Get Awards

The awards were presented by Cubmaster Al Hopkins. Receiving awards were:

Bear — David Kupiszewski.

Lion — Ricky Zito.

Gold Arrows — Ted Stevens, David Schlorholtz, Joseph Jacques, George Zane, James Moyles and David Diehl.

Denner Bars — Bernard Sweeney and Randy Gush.

In other business, George Rung presented the 1964 charter to the Rev. John Esseff who turned it over to Arthur Blewitt, institutional representative of the cub pack.

In 1778, John Parke Curtis, stepson of George Washington, bought 1,100 acres along the Potomac River. He named the estate "Arlington" after an ancestral home in Virginia's Northhampton County.

Committee Battles To Head Barrett Primary Election

BARRETT — Barrett Township voters will be faced with choosing committeemen and women for both parties at the polls April 28.

Republicans will have to pick between incumbent committeeman, John Nauman, and Robert D. (Pete) Quinn. Nauman is presently assistant road supervisor of Monroe County and has been active in the township in Cub Scouts. He is a member of the Mountainhome Methodist Church.

For Democratic committeeman, Edwin J. (Chub) Caprioli is unopposed. Incumbent, Harry Evans is presently tax collector. He will not seek re-election.

Mrs. Lydia Christenson, Republican committeewoman is running for re-election. She is president of the Evans Blitz American Legion Ladies Auxiliary, treasurer of the World War I Auxiliary and treasurer of the Barrett Council of Republican Women. She has held office for six years.

Not Seeking Re-election

Democratic committee woman, Mrs. Lillian Price, will not run for re-election. She has left the field open to Mrs. Helen Brush, Mrs. Jane Brush, and Aubrey Siglin.

Mrs. Helen Brush is a Democrat and active in politics on both the local and national scene.

Mrs. Jane Brush is president of the Barrett Women's Democratic Club and is active in party work.

Each committeeman or woman will be elected to a two-year term. The responsibility of office is to see that people are registered; arrange for voters to reach the polls and aid party members in getting jobs within the party.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Thursday, February 20, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't fret about "the same old thing" and go about routine as if it had no individuality. There are hidden gains to be sought. A fresh approach will help.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Stress self-reliance now. Don't count too much on the cooperation of others. Decide effectually on a format and make your commitments judiciously — to stand.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Where you can give a lift to someone, it will be greatly appreciated, and your personal stock will rise considerably. A "help-yourself and help-others" day — one which should bring you great happiness.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Emphasize concentration, organization and economy now, and this day's story should have a happy ending. Take advantage of all the real opportunities available: there are several.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Watch your step in minor as well as major endeavors; know whereof you speak WHEN you speak, and you can roll up a sizable profit now.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Make a mental list of what you believe must be done, then note proffered suggestions; put all together to sift for "firsts" and things that have a time limit. Serenity and understanding important.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Plot thickens? It may be the way you are looking at things. Anyway, review, ask questions, study intelligent proposals, and act only after due consideration. But don't just sit it out.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Be realistic about duties, facts versus theories. And start everything on time. Be at ease, and don't force issues.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Speed could undo some of the dandy efforts you have put forth in the past. Proceed calmly with day's schedule, and concentrate on the constructive. Capitalize on your innate versatility.

December 23 to January 20 (Capricorn) — During work, or other important activities, do not let thoughts wander so that they keep your endeavor from being its best. Don't let little things get out of hand.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Where you can eliminate waste motion and avoid complications, do so promptly. Don't risk for too much, but keep on trying for the top: just rewards will be yours.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Employ talents and skills efficiently, without overpressing or reaching beyond sound limits. Avoid pessimists and dissenters.

YOU BORN TODAY are an Aquarius-Pisces Cusp, lacking traits from both signs. You need encouragement occasionally, but once you strike out for real attainment, there is little you cannot accomplish. Things others consider impasses are merely your stepping stones to higher goals. Your mind is quick, all seeing, but you can be too sensitive. Notable traits: changeability (rightly directed can turn to very productive enterprise); intellectuality and analytics. Birthdate of: Joe Jefferson, actor; Mary Garden, singer.

How table looks with leaves down. Only 27" x 42" (yet opens to a huge 42" x 96")

See how cleverly Pennsylvania House provides a maximum of storage space and a maximum of seating space for smaller dining areas. But there's nothing "midget-sized" about these pieces; they just take up less floor space than some of our pieces made on a grander scale. Whatever the size of your dining area, you'll want to see the entire fabulous Pennsylvania House solid cherry collection. It's a wonderful feeling to own the finest!

Cy Barrett Says

Medical Aides Needed

While waiting in a doctor's reception room, I watched the medical assistants come and go. One girl told me she was expecting to become a certified medical assistant and would get an increase in pay. What about certified medical assistants? Much of a demand?

LUCREZIA

DEAR LUCREZIA:

America needs qualified medical assistants! Demands on doctors' time are relentless! Currently, we have 200,000 practicing physicians who average 1.5 to 2 medical assistants each. Couple this with the shortage of registered nurses and you can appreciate the lack of qualified womanpower in this field.

In October, the American Association of Medical Assistants instituted a program of examinations to certify medical assistants. To become certified a woman must be 21, hold a high school diploma, and have worked three years in a doctor's office . . . one year for the same employer. She must also like people, be discreet, intelligent, good-natured . . . and pass the exam.

Certification offers women an opportunity for higher than average medical assistant pay, which is otherwise commensurate with that of a business secretary. Mrs. Stella Thurnau, secretary of the American Association of Medical Assistants, tells me, "There are 600 local chapters of the AAMA, encompassing 12,000 members. A woman may become certified as a medical assistant (administrative) or a medical assistant (clinical). Most go for both."

CY

DEAR CY:

Before my illness, I did quite a bit of fishing for recreation and tied all my own flies. I still do and they are good enough to take my limit the few times I have managed to go fishing this past season. In your column, I read about Sheltered Workshops helping handicapped people regain some initiative and interest in life. This I truly need.

I want to be able to work at home when I feel like it. I can tie bucktails for salt and fresh water fishing on any size hooks that may be necessary, and I can also make my own patterns (both wet and dry) for trout flies. Local sport shops are out, for I have solicited them and been told they have their sources of flies. What about Sheltered Workshops helping me?

FLY TYER

DEAR FLY TYER:

Sheltered Workshops supervise work under their roofs, concentrating on rehabilitation through physical accomplishment. What you need are marketing ways, means and ideas for something you can already do well. I suggest you see a small advertising agency and ask about the possibilities of selling your flies through advertising.

They may advise you to offer your colorful flies for brightening men's hatbands . . . as well as for catching fish. The ad agency should also show you how to get distribution through gift shops, specialty stores and men's apparel shops.

How want ads work for you:

1. Folks looking for living quarters naturally turn to the want ads first.
2. They keep on until they find what they want.
3. It's profitable. Fills vacancies fast and brings many prospects to you.
4. It's economical. Your ad reaches prospects wherever they are for only pennies a day.

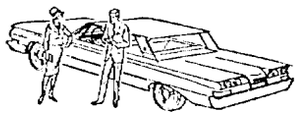
PRIDE



American families take pride in their homes, their communities, the things they own personally. And they should. For example, consider a car. If you're buying one – a new one or another one – you'll want the best you can get in value, appearance and financing.

That's where we come in. Our bank auto loan gives you all the benefits of low-cost bank credit, plus unequalled convenience. You can arrange an auto loan with us and usually have your check in less than 24 hours. This gives you the full bargaining power of a "cash buyer".

Come see us. We want you to be proud of that new car.

IT'S THE FEELING OF CONFIDENCE THAT YOU GET...

February 22nd is the birthday of our most Famous and First President of these United States. Whenever we see his picture we are touched by the integrity he stood for. His portrait stands as the symbol of confidence in America. It is probably for that very reason his likeness is imprinted on the most widely used bill of currency. It is also with that same feeling of confidence that we would like you to identify our service. Printed below is an example of the comprehensive checks we make to ensure the quality of workmanship that gives both, ourselves and you the feeling of confidence.

Drive it like you hate it.

When Volvo came to the U.S. from Sweden in 1956, Chevy was the "hot one," Ford was the "safe one" and Volkswagen was just catching on as the "funny one."

We'd like to say that Volvo immediately caught on as the "tough one." It didn't.

At first only the "car nuts" bought it. They figured that if a Volvo could hold up under Swedish driving (no speed limits), survive Swedish roads (80% unpaved), withstand Swedish winters (30° below), that a Volvo would hold up under anything.

They figured right. Volvos were driven right off showroom floors onto race tracks where they proceeded to win more races than any other compact ever made.

Volvos are still winning races. But that isn't why they're bought today. Volvos are now being used and misused as family cars. They're safe. And on the highway they run away from other popular-priced compacts in every speed range, yet get over 25 miles to the gallon like the little economy cars.

Volvo is now called the "tough one." And it's the biggest-selling imported compact in America today.

You can drive a Volvo like you hate it for as little as $2330.* Cheaper than psychiatry.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price East Coast Port of Entry. Going to Europe? Ask about our overseas delivery plan.

Ornamental Gourds Last Indefinitely

ORNAMENTAL GOURDS — Within the past few years there has been a tremendous interest in growing ornamental gourds for both profit and enjoyment.

The ripened fruits, when properly dried and varnished, last indefinitely. All are easily grown on trellises. Just plant the seed where you want the vines to climb.

In a nutshell, gourds are classed into two groups: the large types (Lagenaria) and the small gourds (Ovifera).

The first group includes such novelties as the Cave Man's Club, Giant Bottle Gourd, Dolphin gourd, Powder Horn or Calabash, Siphon or Dipper gourd (used for bird houses and dippers), Large Turk's Turban, and the Serpent gourd.

The small gourds come in various sizes, shapes and colors. Some are warted, eggshaped, some have colorful stripes, bright red, orange, or yellow. You can buy seed of both types in mixtures or alone.

For the average home gardener, you should grow the small fruited fancy mixture which includes the most decorative gourds all blended into a single packet. These can be grown for gifts, sale at fruit stands or for your own enjoyment.

MICE DAMAGE — Several have written to tell me they have discovered the base of their fruit trees damaged by mice. Will this kill the trees? If the bark is girdled completely around the base, chances are the tree will die.

This spring you may find such trees to leaf and even flower, and not die until midsummer. It does this by using stored nutrients. If the tree is girdled by one half or more, enough of the cambium tissue is left to nurse the tree along to recovery.

Trees completely girdled can be pulled out, or you can resort to "Bridge - grafting." This consists of taking small pieces of twigs and spanning the girdled spot.

In other words, you whittle each end of the twig until it's flat, then you tack one end onto healthy bark above, and below the wounded area. You smear some grafting wax on each end, and with good luck the twigs will unite with the back of the fruit tree.

Moisture and nutrients will flow up the twigs and bypass the girdled part.

If your fruit trees are not protected from mice or rabbits, better wrap some aluminum foil around the base now, because March or April are still good months for rodent activity.

ASHES FOR THE GARDEN — Would you put ashes from a gas incinerator on your garden? A lot of folks do, and in moderation it causes no harm. They have little plant food value, although in sufficient amounts they do improve the mechanical condition of the soil.

Chances are they'll be alkaline (sweet) and can be used wherever liming would not be objectionable. As with wood ashes, you can use these in the compost pile, or scatter them on the garden.

Don't overdo it year after year. A simple soil test will tell just how sweet or sour your soil is.

PEAT POTS — In recent years many commercial growers and home gardeners have been growing plants in pots, made of various materials — peat, corn stalks, manure and paper. Roots grow right through the pots and at transplanting time you set the pot and all in the ground.

The pots can be used for starting seeds or for growing seedlings individually. The pots come singly, or you can grow seeds and plants in a newer idea — pots made in strips of 12, similar to the ice cube trays in your refrigerator.

You fill each square with soil and plant the seed directly in each one, or you can transplant a seedling into each square. At planting time you break off each square and plant it along with the flower or vegetable plant growing in it.

There's an advantage to these "potted" plants. The plants suffer no shock of transplanting. They get off to a quicker start in the garden where they fruit and flower earlier than a plant which has suffered a shock from transplanting.

STRAWBERRY BARREL — Varieties for the strawberry barrel or pyramid for those who have small backyards, might include Pocahontas, Catskill, Redglow or Fairfax.

For plants growing in a terrace or pyramid you should leave the blossoms on, removing the runners. This gives you a crop of berries 60 days after planting. With good luck, the second season should produce up to a quart of berries per plant.

For the regular berry patch, try to get your plants in as soon as possible. Standard varieties planted in April or May will bear their best a year later. Everbearing types set in early spring will bear this year — in late summer and fall.

A FOLIAGE PLANT — Dieffenbachia or Dumb Cane is one of our most popular foliage plants. The one you see most often is D. picta, resembling a palm tree, grows about 18 inches high. Other types grow as high as your ceiling.

They like a warm room (they are sensitive to chilling), humusy soil and a fairly bright window.

If your Dieffenbachia gets too tall cut the top back and root it in a gallon jug of water. The parent plant will continue to grow. A common complaint with this plant is that the leaves exude droplets of water which mark the floor.

This process is known as guttation, normal among plants. Place a plastic sheet under your plant. Old leaves at base of plant turn yellow; pick them off and burn them.

ANOTHER RECIPE — Here's another recipe for bird pudding. One lb. of ground suet, 1 lb. of wholewheat or graham flour, ½ lb. brown sugar, 1 lb. corn meal, 1 lb. bird seed. Mix these together and watch them go after it.

Legislative Team Briefed On UC Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)- Legislative Republicans met with the director of the Bureau of Employment Security Tuesday for a special briefing on Gov. Scranton's controversial unemployment compensation program.

The conference included Sens. D. Elmer Hawbaker, R-Franklin, and John H. Ware, R-Chester, the chairman and vice chairman of the Senate Labor and Industry Committee where the bills are under study.

"We went to school on the basic fundamentals of the program," said Hawbaker after emerging from a two-hour session with bureau director Jack B. Brown.

Complicated Law

"This is the most complicated piece of legislation since I've been on the hill and it's going to take a lot of study," he declared.

Meanwhile Gov. Scranton said he hopes for a showdown on the embattled legislation "as soon as possible."

Some observers feel the UC bills will remain in committee until after the April 28 primary since many of the Senate and House members are up for election this year.

But both Scranton and Hawbaker deny there is any timetable for moving the proposed reform program.

A meeting of the Senate Labor and Industry Committee is tentatively set for next Tuesday to go over the proposals.

Reds Attempt To Woo Students

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union is wooing foreign students with free tuition and medical care, cheap housing and up to $2,500 a year in spending money.

But the United States tops that by giving some fellowships that pay more than $6,000 a year.

This is brought out in a 618-page annual, "Study Abroad," published by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization at that specialized agency's Paris headquarters, and also issued here.

The book shows 11 kinds of scholarships or fellowships offered by the Soviet government or Soviet Academy of Sciences, in general unspecified numbers.

The United States and U.S. institutions offer 15 kinds of scholarships totaling more than 16,000.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. R. of Stroudsburg "A few weeks ago I took some cuttings from geraniums and rooted them in vermiculite. I put the pots in plastic bags and noticed that the cuttings developed a fuzzy growth on them. What should I do to eliminate the condition on the leaves? "

Remove the plastic sheet to allow for air circulation. This should clear up the fungus growth immediately. This is a reminder to other gardeners that it's still time to root new geraniums for your outdoor display this summer.

Make the cuttings about 4 inches long, and root them in sand, vermiculite, perlite or plain tap water. They will root within 3 weeks, and after that you should pot them up in a soil mixture of one-third sand, one-third loam and one - third peat, baked in an oven for ½ hour.

Sometimes the cuttings turn black during the process of rooting. You can prevent this by pouring boiling water over the sand and allowing it to cool before using.

Geraniums like the brightest window possible, and you should avoid overwatering after you pot the cuttings. They are apt to rot. Best room temperature is around 70 degrees.

F. E. of Swiftwater — "On some of my roses and shrubs I've placed some wood chips given to me by a company which removes trees. The chips did a fine job holding moisture in summer and I would like to add more. Someone told me that sawdust or wood chips were bad because they robbed plants of nitrogen plant food. Is that true?"

Not exactly. Sawdust and wood shavings are fine as a mulch and you shouldn't hesitate to use them. The only precaution is that there may be a temporary shortage of nitrogen when the bacteria in soil work on the shavings or sawdust.

You can offset this easily by sprinkling the mulch with a liquid plant food, or adding any balanced commercial plant food.

A. E. of Warnertown — "We have a large golden weeping willow and every year it gets millions of little bugs which chew the leaves. What can be done to combat this pest?"

You have the European Willow Beetle, a metallic - bluish black pest ¼" long, living through winter under bark scales and in rubbish under the tree. The pest emerges in spring, lays eggs which hatch into grubs which feed on the undersides of leaves.

Control: Spray with 3 tablespoons of 50 per cent DDT Powder per gallon of water. Give two sprays, one in late May, and again in mid-June.
